Three of the largest, richest Lutheran churches in New York are considering a merger, the combination to build a skyscraper with a church tucked away in it, according to modern ideas.

How would that impress Martin Luther, who says:

"For where God built a church, there the devil also would build a chapel."

If the Lutherans build a skyscraper church, would the devil find it necessary also to build a skyscraper chapel?

The J. G. White Engineering corporation undertakes a $300,000,000 irrigation scheme for Mexico. Anything that helps Mexico pleases us, but what about the waters of the Colorado river that wander wasted, through the United States and then down into Mexico?

As fast as she uses waters for irrigation, Mexico establishes an international right with which this country must not interfere.

While western states are fighting as to which shall have the water that goes to waste through the deep canyon, while private power companies block any use of that water, fearful that the people may get the benefit, Mexica will establish a claim and our states through which the great river passes will be informed that they must not draw off enough water to interfere with Mexico's established irrigation rights.

President Coolidge [illegible] himself in that. It [illegible] Danchese and [illegible] New [illegible] this problem for himself, of [illegible] possessors.

Eight men and nine women tried to kill themselves in Vienna on Christmas day. "General Misery" is the explanation. Gas was the favorite exit. Revolvers are so expensive. Jumping from a height is even cheaper and surer than gas. There is no turning back once you start down.

But those tired of life are usually weak in will, and it takes will to jump into space, men since their alleged early tree days having had bred in them an intense aversion to falling off the limb.

That, evolutionists say, is why we dream so often of falling, and it explains women's horror of snakes. The snakes could crawl out along the limb, and steal the sleeping baby from its mother. Any good evolutionist, of course, could prove to you that's nonsense.

New York intends to have another big bank, big enough, perhaps to overshadow the National City, now the biggest bank in America.

The new combination, planned, it is said, by Clarence Dillon, of Dillon, Reed Co., would combine a number of banks totaling $900,000,000 in resources. Things are done, financially, on a big scale in these days.

Clarence Dillon, still a young man, is surprising big finance. He is the man who got the Dodge Motor Co. away from the chief powers in Wall street, that expected to swallow and pleasantly digest that useful organization.

Rev. James S. Montgomery, chaplain of the house of representatives, puts the modernist and fundamentalist problem in a few words:

"Modernists say, 'there ain't no

NAB SUSPECT IN E. PALESTINE FLEECING IN CANADIAN CITY

Foreigner Victim of Old "Switching Package" Stunt.

ACCUSED JAILED

Louis Slomen Faces Charge of False Pretense.

John Chuey, East Palestine, is bemoaning the loss of $1,500, while Louis Slomen, of Toronto, Canada, is a prisoner in the county jail at Lisbon today, as a result of an alleged confidence game.

Waives Extradition.

Slomen, who is charged with obtaining money under false pretense, was arrested at his home, 449 Manning avenue, Toronto, Saturday at the request of Cheriff George Wright. The sheriff left for Canada, Monday night, and returned to Lisbon last night with Slomen, who waived extradition.

According to county officials, Slomen is alleged to have gone to East Palestine on December 18 and told Chuey that his father had died in Europe recently and bequeathed his estate, which amounted to hundreds of thousands of dollars, to poor people who could furnish proof that they had been thrifty and saved their money. He, it is claimed, produced a roll of bills, which appeared to consist of $50 denominations.

Chuey showed his bank book, but Slomen asserted the book meant nothing and demanded to see the cash. Chuey went to an East Palestine bank where his money was deposited, and withdrew $1,500. He told police he showed the money to Slomen, who advised him to wrap it in a handkerchief and place it in his trunk, which he asserted would be a safe place to keep it.

Chuey did as instructed, according to his story, and the stranger left the house a few minutes later on the pretense of securing his dinner. Later in the day Chuey became suspicious and opened the trunk. In the handkerchief he found three $1 bills wrapped around a roll of newspapers cut in the shape of bank notes.

The victim immediately notified East Palestine police but the suspect had fled. The East Palestine officials reported Chuey's lass to the sheriff Saturday afternoon.

Sheriff Wright immediately communicated with the authorities at Toronto, asking that Slomen be arrested. A few hours later a telegram was received, advising the sheriff's office of the stranger's apprehension.

When Sheriff Wright reached Toronto Tuesday, Slomen agreed to return without extradition papers. At the border line, it was necessary to arraign the prisoner before an immigration officer who gave his consent for the return of Slomen to Ohio.

The warrant for Slomen's arrest was issued by Justice of the Peace O. L. Butts of East Palestine. The stranger was to be arraigned before Butts this afternoon.

WEIRTON MILL WORKER KILLED

Laborer is Crushed to Death by Door of Car.

Antonio Roson, 37, laborer, employed at the Weirton Steel company plant, was instantly killed early this morning when he was crushed about the body in the door of a dump car which he was unloading.

Roson, according to mill officials, instead of entering the car which was operated by air pressure, started to unload it from underneath when the door swung shut and caught his body.

The victim, who has no relatives in this country, had been employed in the mill for two weeks.

Coroner George A. Arner, of Chester, will conduct an inquest late this afternoon.

59-YEAR-OLD GRANDMOTHER HELD FOR MURDER OF 65-YEAR-OLD HUSBAND

Police Charge She Guided Plot to Kill Man Who "Was in Way" of Romance.

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—A complete and detailed confession of how Alfred Nusbaum, 65-year-old carpenter-contractor was lured through the theft of his automobile to the house where his 59-year-old wife, Eliza, was in the habit of meeting a lover many years her junior and there was killed with an ax was made in a new statement today by Edwin Goff, one of five persons under arrest.

Meanwhile more than 12 hours of persistent questioning had failed to shake the denials of John Walton Winn, Mrs. Nusbaum's lover, upon whom Goff and the others, except the widow, have laid the actual killing.

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—Dry-eyed in a cell, Mrs. Eliza Nusbaum, 59-year-old grandmother, waited today the results of police grilling of John Walton Winn, 37, her admitted ex-convict sweetheart, for further details on the murder of her husband, 65-year-old Albert Nusbaum, who "was in the way."

Only that she guided the amazing plot in which two women and two men were her aides has so far been admitted by Mrs. Nusbaum. So far, police are not certain who actually killed the well-to-do aged contractor, stripped and washed his body, clothed it in good clothes and dumped it on the waste of prairie land which was

DAN CUPID, WITH 602 WEDDINGS TO CREDIT, BREAKS 1925 RECORD

Stork's Calls in East Liverpool Total 636, While Grim Reaper Exacts 401.

Dan Cupid's record for marriages in Columbiana county during 1925 exceeded that of 1924 by 21, according to figures announced today by the marriage license bureau in the probate court's office at Lisbon.

During 1925, which does not include the last day of the year, however, 602 couples were licensed to wed. Last year 581 permits were issued.

While data regarding the residence of the applicants was not available, fully one-third of the newly wedded couples are from East Liverpool, according to the estimates.

The stork's calls in the city during the year just ending, numbered 636, while the same number of new arrivals was recorded last year. Death in 1925 numbered 401 as compared with 338 last year.

The four-month carpenter's strike in East Liverpool caused a slump in building permits, records at the city hall indicate. This year but 189 permits were issued, compared with 371 during 1924. No figures are available as to the cost of the new construction work in the two years.

Nine deaths were due to traffic accidents here during 1925 as compared with a toll of six lives taken in similar mishaps last year. There were no deaths due to alcoholic poisoning either year.

METHUSELAH'S WIFE

THE STORY OF A GIRL WHO MARRIED FOR MONEY

By EDGAR POE NORRIS

© CENTRAL COAST SYN. INC.

THIRTY-SEVEN.

News of the forthcoming ball got into the daily papers before Noble Harwood desired it. He found, upon irritated investigation, that a reporter, alive to the news value of anything concerning the wealthiest man in town, had based his story upon the order for engraved invitations placed through the newspaper's commercial printing department, which was the local representative of a Chicago engraving firm. Laurel, when telephoned by the reporter and asked to verify the story, had innocently supplied him with such details as Noble had sketchily gone over with her.

Noble was vastly annoyed about it when he came home to dinner. "Damn! It's all over town, and it'll be weeks before we can even send out invitations. What will people think?"

"Oh, everybody is sure to talk to every one else about it, and when they learn that no one else has received an invitation, they'll breathe easier.

"I'm sorry about it, dear," Laurel went on, feeling very badly about it. "I didn't think what I was doing when the reporter phoned. I thought, of course, that you had let the announcement get out."

"Oh, there was nothing else you could do but tell them, I suppose. I wish these damned reporters would keep their noses out of things."

"Please, honey dear, don't be angry and fussed. There's nothing to do now but make the best of it."

"The damned reporter got everything wrong," Noble growled.

"Let me see what he said," she took the paper from him and skimmed over the story on page one. She looked up, frowning. The details were substantially the same as those she had given the inquirer.

"We can't have a 'Louis XIV' motif!" he explained.

"Why, I thought that was what you were planning on."

"I suppose everybody is ordering a French court costume," he groaned. "But perhaps not," he suddenly grinned. "I think that most of them will wait until they get an invitation." He was thinking, with satisfaction, of his power in Central City society. Not every one could be sure they would be invited to Noble Harwood's affairs.

"But, honey, why not 'Louis XIV?'"

Laurel was irritated because he was making the plans and then telling her about them.

"Well, everybody would wear the same thing—I mean all the costumes would be the same style. We must have a motif allowing full freedom in costumes."

"I see what you mean. Why not a Mardi Gras ball, or a Venetian festival, or——?"

"I have a better idea. I think. 'The Arabian Nights.'"

"Yes!" Her eyes lighted. "You can come as Douglas Fairbanks."

"And in the midst of it, a great feast," he continued, without noticing her remark. "The distinctive dishes and foods of every nation. Capers and truffles and marrons, pate de fois gras, bar-le-luc, wines from France; pickled herrings; frankfurters, pumper-nickel, lebkuchen, marzipan, from Germany; champommes, Gruyere, Emmenthal, from Switzerland. . . ."

"I sometimes think that food means more to you than anything else," she observed.

"Don't interrupt me! Caviar, from Russia; plum pudding, marmalade, Stilton and Cheddar cheese, biscuits, from England—and a whole roasted beef; bacon, from Ireland; oatcakes, short bread, jams, from Scotland; raisins, almonds, olives, pimento, olive oil, anchovies, from Spain; sardines, from Portugal; figs, sweets, cigarettes, from Turkey; fish balls, mackerel, from Norway. . . ."

"But dear, you don't suppose everybody is going to eat all of that, do you?"

"I want something for every one's palate. And to continue—From Italy, carciofini, antipasto, gorgonzola cheese, Naples filberts, vermouth, broccoli; curries from India; wines from Greece, turtle meat, from the Gulf of Mexico, packed in salted Sherry wine; crab meat from Japan; pintades from Brazil; caviar from Russia—."

"Now you're repeating. Aren't you going to have anything from America?"

"Yes, America's most popular dishes, ham and eggs and baked beans. Also hot dogs."

"But that's not fair."

"Well, name other American dishes that are more popular. Flapjacks?" There was a note of contempt in his voice.

"We've talked enough about food. . . . What are we going to wear?"

"I haven't decided," he replied. Then, seeing her eyes, he hastily went on, "I mean I haven't any idea. What do you suggest?"

"I suppose," she bantered, "that since this is going to be a Bagdad ball, you'll have to be a caliph and I one of the harem, or a slave girl."

"Perhaps," he replied, smiling, "it would be better for us to go as Methuselah and wife."

Laurel colored. It was the first indication he had ever given her that he knew the sobriquet.

Noble's face sobered and he spoke seriously to Laurel: "You don't mind, do you dear, because the ball is being given for Marion?"

"Why, of course not, precious. Whatever made that occur to you?"

"I don't want you to feel——."

"Please, honey, it hurts me for you to think that—I—."

"I suppose it's foolish to be launching her socially now. She ought to be in school. She knows absolutely nothing."

"Oh, she's very clever, Noble."

"I hope you sincerely think so. She seems to me to be a little fool. God help the man she marries!"

Laurel thought of Wyman Holt. "I'm only a little older—a year," she murmured, suggestively.

"Yes, but you were educated, and trained at home, and she—well, she is just like her mother."

There was silence between them for a moment.

"I suppose you know, my dear, that the former Mrs. Harwood is coming to town." It was the first time Noble had spoken of the visit to Laurel.

"Yes," she said simply.

"I suppose," he said, hesitantly, "we will have to invite her to the ball—because of Marion."

"Yes. . . ." There was a certain ominous tone in her assent.

DON'T GET UP NIGHTS

John Lumpkins, Dayton, Ohio, says: "Come to 7 Carrie St., and I will show you 25 pieces of gravel that passed after taking Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula). Had to get up 15 times at night for two years. Alright now." Lithiated Buchu cleanses the bladder like Epsom Salts do the bowels, thereby relieving irritation, driving out foreign matter and neutralizing excessive acids. These are the causes of unnatural action of the bladder at night. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) is not a cheap medicine. The tablets cost 2 cents each. Sold at leading drug stores or Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio. Locally at J. D. Holloway, druggist.

MONEY SET ASIDE FOR RURAL WORK

Director H. G. Knight, of the West Virginia experiment station, will call together during Farmers' Week at Morgantown, the committees of the various participating organizations to consider the state needs in home conomics, rural sociology and rural economics. This is for the purpose of seeing to what further good use West Virginia's appropriation of $20,000 from the Purnell fund can be put. Next year this amount will be increased to $30,000. This money is given the experiment station for investigation in rural problems in economics and sociology. Some of it has already been used to state experiments, but part of it is still available and Director Knight is anxious to use it to the best possible advantage, so he is calling in state people to find out what they think is most needed.

EAST LIVERPOOL — AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1925.

New Year's Day

East Liverpool today says goodbye to 1925 and prepares to usher in the New Year.

And while the dying year has not been as satisfactory from an industrial standpoint as many others within the memory of pottery manufacturers and merchants, yet it has been characterized by many favorable developments for which we should be thankful. With business improvement noticeable throughout the country, the ceramic industry is certain to share in the trade impetus that is expected early in 1926.

Newspaper readers today and tomorrow will real the customary holiday editorials. Many give them a hasty glance, say to themselves "More Bunk" and move on to the murders, society items, death notices, advertising and other really interest parts of the paper.

But is it really bunk to talk of peace on earth? Is it bunk to talk of good will? Is it bunk to talk of fresh beginnings? Of closing old books and opening the new ones with a strengthened purpose?

But down in their hearts most people do not believe it is. There is too much talk of bunk these days; too much relegating anything we happen not to like at the moment to the bunk pile.

And bunk is any attempt to influence people through their surface emotions to do what their minds, if used, would repudiate.

But any attempt to urge people to forget those things which are behind, to stretch forward to those which are before, to press on to the goal, to the prize of their high calling, partakes, in however small degree, of inspiration.

And so, on New Year's Day, once more we suggest that it is well to keep on trying. It is not well to forget the past in the sense of throwing away its lessons, but it is well in the sense of ceasing to worry about it, ceasing to let it clog us. Today is here. Tomorrow shows a clean page. The New Year offers its new opportunity. Let us press forward toward the prize.

Wishing Municipal Court Success

Marking a decided innovation in the East Liverpool district, a municipal court will begin to function here on New Year's Day. And with its establishment, made possible by legislative enactment, five justices of the peace will retire as magistrates, while the incoming mayor, Ralph C. Benedum, will be free to devote his attention to problems other than the humdrum of police court.

With the moral support of the Southern Columbiana County Bar association, Trades and Labor Council, Chamber of Commerce, the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions' clubs and other civic organizations, the new tribunal will be formally opened on the third floor of the Thompson building, Fourth and Market streets, at 10 o'clock Friday morning.

The administration of justice in the new court is in capable hands. Judge-elect Jesse C. Hanley, former prosecuting attorney of Columbiana county, is well qualified for the honor bestowed upon him by the electors. Miss Ruth I. Finnie, the clerk-elect, will bring into the office her experience as secretary to Justice P. V. Mackall, one of the five magistrates whose offices are abolished by the Carpenter-Emmons law. Likewise, the bailiff, Carman D. Hissam, is familiar with the duties of his position by reason of his service on the police force. Miss Lulu Bennett, the stenographer, is no stranger to court work. Mrs. May Joseph and Thomas Hindle are the jury commissioners.

With the assumption of the work of the justices of the peace as well as the hearing of all police cases, not to mention the addition of many civil actions which heretofore have been heard in common pleas court, Lisbon, the court attaches have a great responsibility. But the public has confidence in their ability to discharge the obligation.

May the municipal court be a success from every standpoint, is the New Year's wish of the Review-Tribune.

Russia On Disarmament

Soviet Russia accepts the invitation to the international arms conference, though as might be expected, rather ungraciously. Says a Russian official:

"While we are still skeptical of the European nations' real desire for disarmament, we are willing to make another effort to establish general peace and economic co-operation among all mankind.

"With this end in view we are ready to put before the conference a concrete and definite plan representing the Russian people's earnest desire for peace, a new social order, a firm economic foundation for the world."

That's all right. The other powers, including America, while still skeptical of Russia's real desire for disarmament, are willing to make another effort to establish peace and economic co-operation with the government at Moscow. With this end in view, they are ready to put before Russia a concrete and definite plan representing the rest of the world's earnest desire for peace, a workable social order and a firm economic foundation for the world. In this they hope Russia will condescend to join, for her own good as well as theirs.

The latest permanent wave is a cold wave.

Years always look good when they're young.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—It is not altogether necessary to go to the theater to see a favorite stage player. Some of the big stars hace been appearing in night clubs where the touch is more intimate. They may even join you at a table.

This doubling up process is frowned upon by producers and in a few instances stopped by legal injunction. Such names as Francis Williams, Sterling Holloway, Web and Hay, Foss and Montana, the Astairs, Chic Sale, Fowler and Tamara, Ukelele Ike and others have appeared on night club programs.

The salaries are said to be higher than those paid on the legitimate stage and for a much briefer public view. One actor was paid twice his salary by a club and when his theatrical manager objected he quit the stage.

So serious has the "double exposure" grown that almost all new contracts now prevent supper club appearance. It is said Al Jolson was offered $20,000 a week to appear at one of the nocturnal mosques and Marilyn Miller a similar amount.

Forty men in the millionaire division are said to be backing an exclusive night club known as "The Forty-second Street Country club." It will provide a lavish entertainment to a limited number, and it is believed may be able to avoid the click of a padlock.

The producer objects to the town's garlands being flung at the feet of their stars in what they regard as tawdry atmosphere. It cheapens them, they feel. Of course many of stellar proportions have come from the cabaret, but going back is something else.

The club managers say they can fill their places nightly by presenting a real star and that a $4 convert charge is not resented. Perhaps the custom among some of the players of calling out patrons by name adds to the popularity of the idea. The New Yorker loves to be noticed.

In New York clubs, incidentally, the flask is rarely seen these days. The men bring their joy water in ordinary water bottles and the women carry cheapest sort of evening bags. Raids are almost always made while the crowds are on the dance floor, so flasks will be found on tables. Now the patrons merely walk on out, leaving bottles and bags for the management to laugh off.

The biggest Chinese store is at 16 Mott street. It fills a six-story building and owns the fashionable Vantine's, on the avenue. It is a place where one is never asked to buy. Tourists may spend hours there and not be approached with a sale suggestion. It has been in existence more than 30 years and its proprietors are millionaires.

Now that Brown's chop house has gone the way of nearly all old New York institutions, about the only English tavern place giving the air of antiquity is Keene's. It was once the home of the Lambs' club before they erected their own building. One of the picture frames on the wall holds a bloodstained playbill—said to have been the one held by Lincoln when he was assassinated watching "Our American Cousin." There is one in London and another in Chicago which are claimed to be the originals.

All of which recalls the sign that has hung for years in a Broadway curio shop window reading: "Modern antiques."

A town in Jersey is said to have a factory specializing in antiques and early American furniture which is not only sold in New York, but all over the world. In Mexico City several years ago I saw a crate being unpacked in an antique shop. It came from Elgin, Ill., and contained a brass hinged cedar chest filagreed with elegant worm holes.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Uncle Sam's Coal Resources.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 31.—The United States government is the richest owner of coal property in the world. In accordance with its policy of conservation the coal lands withdrawn by the government are being held, although they are open to lease, against the day when the private mines of the country become barren. And it is planned to release these lands for the benefit of the public according to a well regulated plan to that, at least for centuries to come, America will not face a coal shortage of any proportions or one that will be more than an ephemeral affair caused by a temporary strike.

For, although the anthracite mines of Pennsylvania may kick up a quantity of trouble in the shape of a war between operators and miners, the United States is sitting on enough coal to provide the country should anything serious develop. But it will not be inveigled into loosening its grip on this coal because of a mere strike. Strikes come and go, but the need of coal probably will go on forever, and any foolish letting down of the barriers would start something the government would not be able to finish.

The first coal land law was passed in 1873. It provided for the sale of 160 acres at not less than $10.00 per acre. This law was used until 1905 when the general public realized that, under the homestead law, great areas were being obtained by private individuals, who were taking advantage of the government. In other words the homestead act was an agricultural law, calculated to stimulate the settling of unoccupied sections of the country by giving fairly arable land to a person, but in many cases these people were disregarding mineral rights.

Therefore, in 1906, the president ordered the secretary of the interior to withdraw all public coal land. In accordance with this order, all land suspected of containing coal deposits beneath it was withdrawn for conservation by the government. This land was placed under the jurisdiction of the secretary of the interior.

Approximately 63,000,000 acres were withdrawn under this act, of which about 32,000,000 have since been classified and catalogued as coal lands, while the remainder is unclassified but is being held, pending the outcome of investigation as to its coal properties.

Sale Law Mondified.

After 1906 the sale law passed in 1873 held good, but was modified to include an evaluation clause which specified that each tract sold must be catalogued as being of definite value, and disposed of accordingly.

In 1920, however, to further the policy of conservation, and at the same time utilize the immense coal resources, a lease law was passed. This act provided for the leasing of lands at auction, and superseded the old sale law. It set the maximum area of land to be leased to one person or organization at 2560 acres. At the present time about 81,000 acres are under lease, their potential coal tonnage being about 790,000,000. The minimum annual production from these lands is about 4,000,000 tons. There are now 211 leases on government coal lands.

The largest producer of coal from public lands in 1924 was the State of Wyoming, the amount being 792,000 tons, or more than 11 per cent of all the coal produced in the state. Colorado produced the second largest tonnage. A total of 275,000 tons came from leased government coal lands in that state.

Utah was third in the list, the amount produced being 181,000 tons, while North Dakota records showed a production of 153,000 tons from public lands.

Most of the government coal lands are in the Western states—Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, North Dakota, Montana, Washington, New Mexico, South Dakota, and Oregon, given in the order of their production. The government receives a royalty of ten cents per ton on every ton mined from leased lands.

There are also government coal lands in the state of Alabama. The greatest part of all leasable lands contains bituminous coal.

How Leases Are Safeguarded.

The government royalty precludes any freeze-out methods on the part of the lessee. Likewise there are certain stipulations he must comply with in leasing the lands. If one man happened to control the entire 81,000 acres now under lease and attempted to hold them idle in order to fight a competitor, he would have to pay something like $400,000 whether he mined an ounce, a rather large price for what he would get. Likewise any homesteader settling on land known to contain coal, or included within the general withdrawal has no jurisdiction over mineral rights, which, of course, include coal mining rights. Since the passage of the leasing law five years ago, one twentieth of the coal mined in the public land states comes from mines operated under government leases, and this figure is growing annually.

Included in this leasing law are clauses pertaining to other products, such as oil, gas, lead, zinc, phospate, and shale.

The United States now owns 500,000 acres of phosphate lands, which can supply 8,000,000,000 tons of this essential fertilizer, when it is needed by the American people. This will become an invaluable asset in the future when farm lands, due to the continuous use involved in crop yields, become sterile.

There are 4,000,000 acres of oil shale in the public domain, from which it is estimated 60,000,000,000 barrels of oil may be extracted when demand and price warrant the higher cost of its development. Before that time, however, there are millions of barrels yet to come from oil wells on government land, the amount now being taken from public and Indian lands representing one-tenth of the national production. There are now 422 outstanding leases on oil and gas lands.

Twenty per cent of the zinc mined in the United States and 8 per cent of the lead come from Indian lands under the supervision of the department of the interior. Also the public domain contains hundreds of water power sites potentially aggregating 25,000,000 horsepower.

All these are guarded by the conservation policy now being applied by the government through the new conservation branch of the department of the interior. This branch falls in the geological survey division and its personnel is made up of geologists and engineers designated to act as technical advisers and administrators in the classification of these public lands. Their duties also include inspecting the mining operations and cooperating with private operators to prevent the waste in production of minerals on the public domain.

AMERICAN DRY CZAR VISITS LIQUOR CENTER

Gen. Andrews Gets View of Situation in Havana.

EYE ON RUNNERS

U. S. Cutter Modoc Drops Anchor in Rum Supply Harbor.

HAVANA, Dec. 31.—For the first time since prohibition in the United States made liquor smuggling and selling the biggest criminal business in the Western Hemisphere, American prohibition officials had an opportunity today to get a close-up view of what is considered the greatest single supply center for international rum runners.

The U. S. cutter Modoc, bearing Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, the American dry czar, and a group of lesser officials, steamed through the narrow entrance to Havana harbor today and dropped anchor within the shadow of historic Moro Castle. Not far from where the Modoc stopped the battle ship Maine was blown up in 1898 and the war with Spain precipitated.

Gen. Andrews came to Havana with the frank purpose of surveying the Havana rum situation. This is the great supply center for Florida, Georgia, Alabama and the entire southeastern part of the United States, and also to some extent the upper Atlantic coast and New Jersey and New York. From this port the liquor-laden caravans go out silently day and night to try conclusions with the American coast guard. Andrews wants to see the procedure and investigate conditions first hand.

An official of the American embassy at Havana joined the Modoc at Key West.

A call was made on Ambassador Crowder, and arrangements made for a call on the president of Cuba tomorrow.

HEALTH BOARD HEARS REPORT

Commissioner Fraser Lists Contagious Disease Cases.

The annual report of Health Commissioner Dr. John A. Fraser, city health commissioner was submitted at the monthly meeting of the board of health, held in the clinic rooms in the Meredith building, last evening.

During the year 130 new cases were admitted to the clinic, which brings the total since the clinic opened up to 860. He said 1,608 male treatments and 513 female treatments were given in the clinic during the year.

The report on contagious and communicable diseases for 1925 showed the following totals: Scarlet fever, 44; tuberculosis, 28; measles, 16; smallpox, 11; diphtheria, 7; chickenpox, 6. Typhoid fever, 1; mumps, 1; tetanus, 1.

The December contagious disease report showed 14 cases of measles; eight cases smallpox; seven of scarlet fever; three of chickenpox and one each of tetanus and diphtheria. Twelve houses were fumigated and at the present time three cases of smallpox and three cases of scarlet fever are under quarantine. Twelve reports of contagious diseases in the schools were investigated. In the clinic 12 new cases were admitted, two old cases returned and 125 treatments given.

Births during the month exceeded deaths by more than two to one, the stork making 62 calls as compared with 27 deaths.

The board also approved the three-year garbage collection contract given Peter Milliron, Second street. Milliron has installed water tight wagons with sectional lids for this work. The board is preparing to publish rates to be charged for the collection.

Fire Damages Home Of Charles Lentz; Loss Placed at $500

Damage estimated at $500 was caused by fire at the home of Charles Lentz, corner Fifth street and Sugar alley at 10:20 o'clock last night.

The blaze was started by sparks from a chimney. Firemen from the Central station extinguished the fire with chemicals, but the contents of the room were rendered a total loss. The house itself was slightly damaged. The loss is covered by insurance.

hell.' Fundamentalists say, 'The hell there ain't.'"

The average man says: "There may or may not be such a super-heated resort. But to avoid running risks I shall behave decently."

You may add that he doesn't amount to much who refrains from sin only because he fears that he may go to hell.

Great Britain with her rubber monopoly takes from this country more than enough to pay her debt to us.

By way of reprisal the Massachusetts legislature is asked to drive out British insurance companies. Such talk is foolish. Uncle Sam, his pockets bulging with gold, and playing the part of a "cry baby," makes himself unnecessarily ridiculous.

Besides, in the California fire English insurance companies paid what they owed in full, which is more than can be said for some American companies.

Goodby to the horse. Los Angeles is the first city to have "no horse" streets. Washington forbids horse-drawn vehicles on four important thoroughfares. That will spread.

The horse is happier in the country, away from hard streets. He is no longer necessary in the city, no excuse for him. Even if he were a little cheaper for some work, which is doubtful, he should vanish. Get a truck.

neighbors, are dependent on friends today, while the mother and her children are worrying about a $2,000 mortgage which hangs over the 35 acre farm which they purchased about two years ago.

The fire followed the use of ground oil by Francis Alford in hastening a fire in an out-kitchen. The oil exploded when flames from the fire in the stove ignited the liquid as it was poured from a can. The blast scattered blazing oil over the boy's clothing and about the interior of the kitchen. The blaze then leaped across the narrow area way between the kitchen and the cottage, quickly enveloping the latter structure.

One of the Alford children, in shoeless and stockingless feet, ran over the ice and snow to the home of John D. Rice, seeking assistance. Arthur Pugh, Charles Pugh and Clyde Stewart, also neighbors, answered the alarm, as did other farmers, but they were powerless to check the flames, as all creeks in the district were frozen, while a pump from which the family obtained water for domestic needs, was enveloped with flames, as it was located directly between the kitchen and the cottage.

Lost Stock of Provisions.

The family stock of winter provisions, including scores of jars of fruit, etc., stored in the house, was destroyed by the fire.

One bed, two chairs, two pictures and a few drawers from a dresser comprised the only furniture saved.

Dr. C. R. Campbell of Chester was called to attend Mrs. Alford and her son.

Because of the family's plight, steps were taken in Chester shortly before noon by John Rice and Arthur Pugh to raise a relief fund. The Review-Tribune will accept contributions toward this fund which at 1 o'clock this afternoon totalled $55.

The contributions are:

Taylor, Smith & Taylor Pottery Co.	$25.00
John P. Rice	5.00
C. H. Pugh	5.00
Mrs. Belle Pugh	5.00
Arthur Pugh	5.00
Clyde Stewart	5.00
F. W. Werkheiser	5.00
Total	$55.00

Funds collected will be expended in providing clothes for the mother and five children, while an effort will be made to raise enough to meet the expense of a new home for the family.

But $1,000 insurance, which will be collected by the loan company which holds the $2,000 mortgage, was carried on the property.

OPENS REVIVAL IN EAST END

Evangelist Lincicome Conducts Services in Oakland Church.

Evangelist F. Lincicome, of Gary, Ind., opened a three weeks' revival last evening in the Oakland Free Methodist church, East End. He conducted a series of meetings in the same church several years ago.

He spoke last night in part as follows: "The church must either go and grow or stay and starve, it must extend or expire, preach or perish. One reason why you have so many non-church goers in this city is because you have so many non-going churches. Some churches in East Liverpool are mighty fond of singing like a mighty army moves the church of God but are moving like an army. It seems to me they are moving more like a funeral procession or a Memorial Day parade."

The sermon subject tonight will be "Taking an Inventory."

the scene of the Leopold and Loeb crime.

Winn, taken after a battle with detectives at Crown Point, Ind., late yesterday, has so far been defiant, refusing to admit that he struck the actual ax blows that killed Nusbaum.

A diary, written on clean paper, by which Mrs. Nusbaum is said by police to have hoped to have established an alibi, is to be further examined today. In it she told of a fear of her husband.

Loved Ex-Convict.

The love affair of the grandmother and the former convict has been going on for years, Mrs. Nusbaum readily admitted. It went on under the eyes of the ill and broken man who was slain. Winn lived on the woman's money for years. He averaged $250 a month from her, her sons and relatives said.

Others under arrest are:

Delilah Martin, a landlady whose house police say was used for the planning of the murder, and where Mrs. Nusbaum and Winn frequently used as a trysting place.

Edwin Goff and Marion Stringham, lodgers at Mrs. Martin's place.

Twelve hours after Nusbaum's body was found on railroad tracks in South Chicago, near a pile of partially burned clothing, the two women and Goff and Stringham had been arrested. Previously they had taken into custody Lloyd Nusbaum, 19-year-old grandson of the slain man. It was when suspicion was centered on the youth that his father, Roscoe Nusbaum, revealed the affair between his mother and Winn, which brought about the latter's arrest.

Widow Reveals Plot

After sever grilling, Mrs. Nusbaum, according to police, gradually revealed the plot to get her husband out of the way, but strived desperately to cover up Winn, whose arrest followed a few hours later.

There are many points the police have to yet clear up. The actual slayer has not been determined, although Goff at times, police say, has admitted battering Nusbaum's head in with an ax, while Winn stood by, and then again denies his own story.

Woman Faces Court As Aftermath of Elopement Case

Mrs. Aelethia Miller, Etna street, Salem, was held for a hearing next Monday afternoon under $500 bond by Judge Lodge Riddle, in juvenile court, Lisbon, yesterday, when she pleaded not guilty to a charge of aiding in the delinquency of Gertrude Lottman, 14-year-old Salem girl, who eloped with Edwin Flavell, Machinist, Christmas eve.

LIKES WAY HIS MEN AIDED HIM

Retiring Mayor Publicly Thanks Police, Firemen.

Mayor Frank C. Blackburn, who tomorrow morning will turn the keys of office over to his successor, W. L. Fogo, appreciates the support and assistance that has been accorded him during his stay in office.

Expressing his appreciation in no uncertain terms, Mr. Blackburn today publicly thanked municipal employes, members of the police and fire departments and asserted that the city should be proud of them.

He said: "I have told the safety department employes that they have my heartfelt gratitude for their co-operation and their willingness while I was mayor. No matter how tough a job they had to face, nor how many hours it took to do it, nor what measures were necessary to accomplish the undertaking, every one of them plunged into it with willingness. I personally feel that the city ought to be proud of the men that are risking their lives to protect citizens and their property.

"Different rumors have come to me, as mayor, at times concerning members of the police force, and I have left no stone unturned in my efforts to try to run them down. In no case have I been able to find a solid foundation to any of them."

WILL OBSERVE WEEK OF PRAYER

Beginning on Sunday evening, the congregation of the Yellow Creek Presbyterian church will observe the week of prayer. Rev. Consecration service of the young people's meeting will be held in the evening. The subject will be "How Does God Show His Love and Care?" George W. Shaffer will be leader.

Music and orchestra accompaniment will be given in connection with the prayer week services.

Preaching in the Longs Run Presbyterian church next Sunday at 2:30 o'clock. Sunday school at 1:30 p. m. in spite of the storm and cold the congregation celebrated Christmas last Sunday afternoon with 50 present. There was an excellent program and an abundance of candy and oranges. Nine baskets of Christmas cheer for the sick and needy were delivered to the Salvation Army on Christmas morning.

ROAD BIDS TO BE ADVERTISED

County Surveyor Kirk Prepares Estimates for Improvements.

Bids for the construction of a section of the East Liverpool-Youngstown road, or I. C. H. No. 502, will likely be advertised by the state highway department for February letting, according to information County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk has received from Columbus.

At the same time bids will be asked for the surfacing of that part of the Wellsville-Salineville road or a section of I. C. H. No. 381 in the village of Salineville.

Estimates for the grading, bridges and surfacing of four miles of the East Liverpool-Youngstown have been prepared by Mr. Kirk, and will be filed with the county commissioners Monday next for approval. For a concrete top the estimate has been placed at $153,380, and for a vitrified paving block top the estimate is set at $206,794.

This four miles of road will extend from Middleton north to the Columbiana-Mahoning county line. With this contract being awarded in February, it is very likely that grading on this section of road will begin early in March.

The southern end of this road, or that just north of the East Liverpool city limits, may take longer to complete than any other section of this intercounty highway.

One-half mile of concrete road is to be built in the village of Salineville as the last part of an improved highway between Wellsville and Salineville. This job has been estimated to cost $17,214.70, and it will be one of the first pieces of surfacing done in this county next spring. Because of the fact that there will be a very short haul of materials, and also because of the fact that the road has been graded, it is likely the job will be completed within a month after the first concrete has been poured. This estimate also will be filed with the commissioners for their approval next Monday, and with this obtained, the estimates will be immediately forwarded to the state highway department.

Surveyor Kirk is working out estibuilt next year, and unless there is mates for several other roads to be something unexpected to change plans these additional estimates will also be laid before the commissioners at their next meeting.

It is the purpose of the commissioners to do as much work on the East Liverpool-Youngstown road next year as possible, although the entire route may not be surfaced, it will be graded its entire length. The four mile section from Middleton north, however, will be graded, bridged and surfaced during 1926.

THREE MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED

A marriage license has been issued to Harry L. Allen and Mildred Montgomery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Montgomery of East Liverpool. They will be married by the Rev. John F. Dimit of the Methodist Protestant church at East Liverpool.

Paul Robert Bower of Hanoverton, formerly of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Virginia McCord, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. McCord of Lisbon, have been granted a marriage license. They were married at the parsonage of the Lisbon Presbyterian church by the Rev. P. W. Macauley.

Everett L. Gotthardt, employed as an upholsterer and residing at New Waterford, and Charlotte Marie Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clark of East Palestine, have obtained a marriage license. They were married at the parsonage of the Lisbon Christian church by the Rev. R. J. Bennett.

CENTRE TRUSTEES TO HOLD MEETING

Centre township trustees will hold their last meeting of the old term Thursday night, and at the same time the new trustees will be sworn in. Mrs. Helen O'Brien will be the new township clerk.

The new council of Lisbon will hold its first meeting next Monday night, which will be presided over by Mayor-elect Robert Clark. George Groves, who was elected village marshal at the November election, will be appointed chief of police by Mayor Clark, and this appointment will be confirmed by council.

Former justices of the peace were re-elected at the November election, commissions being delivered Wednesday by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine to Claude Albright and M. K. Zimerman.

FUND TRANSFER SOUGHT IN COURT

Village council of Salineville has filed a petition in common pleas court asking permission of the court to transfer $4,500 from the electric works fund to the water works fund, it being declared in the petition there is no further use for the money in the former fund. The water works fund, the petition says, is in need of the money.

A similar petition has been filed by City Solicitor J. E. Baukneeht of East Palestine, asking for the right to transfer $2,400 from the general fund to the safety fund and also for the transfer of $600 from the general fund to the service fund.

Decree Handed Down.

A decree of foreclosure has been handed down by Judge James G. Moore in the case of the Potters Savings & Loan company of East Liverpool against Orval C. Reynolds and Ida E. Reynolds. The amount found due was placed at $1,539.76. An order of sale has been entered.

A similar entry has been made in the case of the same plaintiff against James W. Metcalf, with the amount found due to be $601.

Seeks Citizenship.

John Herman, Jr., residing at 297 Wilson avenue, Salem, has declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States. He is employed as a metal finisher and is a native of Rumania. He arrived at the port of New York Sept. 10, 1923.

How do you feel at 5 o'clock?

"ANOTHER day's work done! Now, for a regular dinner—and a good time with the wife and kiddies! Guess we'll see a movie, go for a walk in the park or take a long ride. Bet my wife has a fine juicy steak and potatoes—good cold buttermilk and hot rolls—and pie. Oh, Boy! makes my mouth water just to think of it."

Is that the way you feel at 5 P. M.? Or, are you just too played out for any good when your day's work is over?

LISBON

ROAD BIDS TO BE ADVERTISED

County Surveyor Kirk Prepares Estimates for Improvements.

Bids for the construction of a section of the East Liverpool-Youngstown road, or I. C. H. No. 502, will likely be advertised by the state highway department for February letting, according to information County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk has received from Columbus.

At the same time bids will be asked for the surfacing of that part of the Wellsville-Salineville road or a section of I. C. H. No. 381 in the village of Salineville.

Estimates for the grading, bridges and surfacing of four miles of the East Liverpool-Youngstown have been prepared by Mr. Kirk, and will be filed with the county commissioners Monday next for approval. For a concrete top the estimate has been placed at $153,380, and for a vitrified paving block top the estimate is set at $206,794.

This four miles of road will extend from Middleton north to the Columbiana-Mahoning county line. With this contract being awarded in February, it is very likely that grading on this section of road will begin early in March.

The southern end of this road, or that just north of the East Liverpool city limits, may take longer to complete than any other section of this intercounty highway.

One-half mile of concrete road is to be built in the village of Salineville as the last part of an improved highway between Wellsville and Salineville. This job has been estimated to cost $17,214.70, and it will be one of the first pieces of surfacing done in this county next spring. Because of the fact that there will be a very short haul of materials, and also because of the fact that the road has been graded, it is likely the job will be completed within a month after the first concrete has been poured. This estimate also will be filed with the commissioners for their approval next Monday, and with this obtained, the estimates will be immediately forwarded to the state highway department.

Surveyor Kirk is working out estimates for several other roads to be built next year, and unless there is something unexpected to change plans these additional estimates will also be laid before the commissioners at their next meeting.

It is the purpose of the commissioners to do as much work on the East Liverpool-Youngstown road next year as possible, although the entire route may not be surfaced, it will be graded its entire length. The four mile section from Middleton north, however, will be graded, bridged and surfaced during 1926.

CENTRE TRUSTEES TO HOLD MEETING

Centre township trustees will hold their last meeting of the old term Thursday night, and at the same time the new trustees will be sworn in. Mrs. Helen O'Brien will be the new township clerk.

The new council of Lisbon will hold its first meeting next Monday night, which will be presided over by Mayor-elect Robert Clark. George Groves, who was elected village marshal at the November election, will be appointed chief of police by Mayor Clark, and this appointment will be confirmed by council.

Former justices of the peace were re-elected at the November election, commissions being delivered Wednesday by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine to Claude Albright and M. K. Zimerman.

FUND TRANSFER SOUGHT IN COURT

Village council of Salineville has filed a petition in common pleas court asking permission of the court to transfer $4,500 from the electric works fund to the water works fund, it being declared in the petition there is no further use for the money in the former fund. The water works fund, the petition says, is in need of the money.

A similar petition has been filed by City Solicitor J. E. Bauknecht of East Palestine, asking for the right to transfer $2,400 from the general fund to the safety fund and also for the transfer of $600 from the general fund to the service fund.

Decree Handed Down.

A decree of foreclosure has been handed down by Judge James G. Moore in the case of the Potters Savings & Loan company of East Liverpool against Orval C. Reynolds and Ida E. Reynolds. The amount found due was placed at $1,539.76. An order of sale has been entered.

A similar entry has been made in the case of the same plaintiff against James W. Metcalf, with the amount found due to be $601.

Lorah Five Loses to Alumni Quint In Thrilling Cage Clash

Highs Force Graduates to Two Extra Periods to Cop Contest, 46-44

Rivals Deadlocked, 33-33 at End of Regular Playing Time; First Additional Period Sends Score to 41-41; Former School Boys Land Decision After Bitter Scrap in Final Stanza.

ONE of the greatest Alumni teams that has ever flipped the leather on the high school court last night outscored Coach Lorah's scrappy high school quintet, 46 to 44, in two extra periods of play, and made near nervous wrecks out of approximately 275 rabid fans as they did it.

Some crouched in almost breathless attitude, others standing on their toes, many clinging perilously to the top railing of the gym and other people's necks in the jam for vantage points—fans thrilled to the spectacle as the two teams fought it out to a 33-33 deadlock as the regular playing period ended; feeling became more intense in the ensuing five minutes as the score crept slowly ownard—35 to 33 as Firth Smith, Denison star, dropped in a field goal, 37 to 33 as Don DeBolt, W. & J. athlete, slid in another; 37 to 35 as little Tom Pusey swished the net from the center of the floor and then 37-37 as the diminutive school captain sneaked under the basket and made another. And it didn't stop there. DeBolt tossed in one of those one-handed side shots and the Alumni forged to the lead, 39 to 37; Bob Pusey, of F. & M. fame, looped another from mid-floor. Hamilton registered a foul making the count 41 to 38 and then "Jinx" dropped in a two-pointer. P. English was sent to the foul line as the timer's gun barked with the result of the game hanging on his throw. He just tossed the oval and it went through. Bedlam broke loose again, with the score knotted at 41-41.

Pusey and Smith Score.

The second extra five minutes were almost a repetition of the first. Alumni started scoring when Pusey registered on another long shot from mid-floor. A foul and field goal by Firth Smith made the count 46. Hamilton scored and Wilson followed him in. The agony ended at this point.

Lorah's passers acquitted themselves gloriously in face of the brand of opposition. The Blue and White was not pitted against stale Alumni performers of years back. They were matched against smart basketball players in perfect physical trim—Don Debolt, of W. & J., one of the best forwards turned out here in the past decade; Bob Pusey, one of Sam Taylor's best floor men at Franklin and Marshall; Guard McConville, another F. & M. luminary; Firth Smith, Denison college cager, and Dale Liebschner, all-around athlete and captain of grid and court teams at high school last year.

Smith Leads Scorers.

Firth Smith, by the way, was deprived of an opportunity to earn a niche in the Blue and White athletic hall of fame while he was a student here. Almost at the peak of his scholastic days, Smith broke an arm in football, and as a result was kept off the caged court. But he's making good out at Denison and he made good for the graduates last night. Firth, first stationed at center and then at forward led all scorers, with nine field goals and two fouls for a total of 20 points.

But he probably worked no harder for what he made than Forward Wilson, of the High five. Especially in the concluding half, Wilson was all over the court. He played a great floor game and scored 15 points, as well.

And "Jinx" Hamilton was no jinx in any sense of the word. "Jinx" went into the fray in the concluding stages of the engagement when things looked darkest for the Lorah combine, but from the moment he entered high school fortunes appeared to change for the better.

Despite his frailness young Hamilton played a bang-up floor game and during his brief tenure scored four field goals and two fouls—10 points in all.

Outpass School Boys.

At the outset of the contest, the Alumni combine outpassed and generally outplayed the Lorah five which, apparently, could not organize its team play.

DeBolt was getting the ball in the corner and from there it was almost a certain field goal. Field goals by Wilson and T. Pusey gave the Blue and White six points against the Alumni 10 at the end of the quarter.

An almost similar ratio prevailed at the end of the half. E. English dropped in two field goals in the second quarter, with the school passers displaying their first effective team play. Paul English registered a two pointer and Tom Pusey caged the leather from mid-floor for the eight points made by the team. DeBolt and Smith continued to hammer the high school basket and, at the close of the half DeBolt had cornered six field goals and Smith four. The score was 21 to 14.

During the first half of the milling, there were no out of bounds rules in force.

Highs Finish Strong.

These, however, were applied in the second half and play slowed down a trifle, with the Alumni retaining an edge on passing until the close of the period when the school boys started to work. They gradually crept closer until at the end of the period they were in a fair way to catch the leaders.

Hamilton replaced E. English in the final period and dropped in the first filed goal of the quarter after about three minutes of play. Wilson counted another and the score stood 29 to 27. The Blue and White spurted. They began to find the Alumni hoop and with a couple of minutes to go took the lead, 33 to 29.

But Firth Smith and Bob Pusey came through with long shot chances and tied it up as the game ended.

Then the clash went into extra periods with the graduates finishing two points ahead.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

By Norman E. Brown

To revert to football again for a few moments, one feels inclined to present a few figures on the game's stars in answer to the criticism that the custom of selecting All-American players each year works a hardship on these men by lessening their worth the following season.

Do the critics recall that Hare of Pennsylvania was selected for such an honor four different years? That Walter Eckersall of Chicago was so honored three years? That Eddie Mahan of Harvard was "handicapped" three times? That Campbell of Harvard, Gilbert of Pennsylvania, Brown and Pennock of Harvard, Lea of Princeton and Hogan of Yale were so honored three years?

Not much of a handicap in these cases.

And the list of grid notables who won the honor the second year is a much longer one of course.

It is, in a way, a slur on the ordinary intelligence of the various coaches to intimate that for the selection of the game's leading stars on the so-called All-Something or other selections these coaches would be unaware of the strength of these various stars and therefore would not be prepared to check them the following year.

The Big Ten teams were well aware of Grange's greatness before he was honored the first time.

This holds true of all other stars.

It cannot be claimed that the added fame affects the playing of the men involved by giving them a distorted value of themselves. Long before these men are so honored glory enough has been heaped upon them to turn their heads, where the weakness to be blinded by the fame lurks.

Mere piffle, this agitation against such mythical selections.

Bowling has been added to the schedule of games for the 1928 Olympic games. But the joy of the bowlers is dampened shortly after the reading of the announcement by the realization that the alleys in Holland will have gutters.

Harry Greb, world's middleweight champion, may be matched with Jack Delaney in the near future, according to word from New York.

If such a bout does occur it should be an interesting one. First of all it will show again to what depths the fight game has fallen. And secondly it will show once more how gullible the New York fans are.

If the men meet we will have the spectacle of the holder of the world's middleweight title fighting a light heavyweight who has just been soundly licked by the champion in his division. The men will fight at catch weights which will give the bout absolutely no standing in the records. Victory for either one will mean nothing—for the men get paid the same, win or lose.

And those who witness the fight will be trying for a month afterwards to figure out what it was all about.

FLORIDA FIGHT BUSINESS GOOD

Dempsey Offered $15,000 For Six-Round Bout.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—According to Jack Britton, former welterweight champion, the boxing game around Miami, Fla., is in such flourishing condition that Jack Dempsey will be paid a guarantee of $15,000 to indulge in a six-round exhibition there next month.

"Ordinary shows there average $7,000," he said. "And the bout between Young Stribling and Hugh Walker drew $20,000, the record gate so far. A real good fight there would be a money maker for all concerned."

Britton, here for the holidays, is wintering at the Florida resort and plans to do some fighting there before the end of the season.

W. V. U. Resumes Work Saturday

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 31.—On his return here today from the east Coach Francis H. Stadsvold, head basketball mentor at West Virginia university, announced that he had invited 12 varsity candidates to come back to Morgantown in time to get down to work at the "Ark" court Saturday afternoon. There is a lot of work at the "Ark" court Saturday afternoon. There is a lot of work to be done before the opening game with Salem college next week and Coach Stadsvold is anxious to have the Mounteineers in top form for that battle.

Forward candidates asked to return are Emory LePera, of Morgantown; Wease Ashworth, of Buckhannon; Junian Murrin, of Parkersburg; and Aaron Oliker, of Clarksburg. The two centers urged to report are "Sleepy" Glenn, of Elkins, and Clarence Lewis, of Charleston. The group of guards includes Captain Natus Rohrbaugh, of Buckhannon; Ed. Morrison, of Erie, Pa.; "Casey" Ryan, of Mannington; Jim Black, of Parnassus, Pa.; Herman Johnson, of Elkins; and Ervin Baker, of Clarksburg.

NAVY ELEVEN MAY GET BILL INGRAM

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 31.—"Navy Bill" Ingram, who led the eastern squad here Saturday in the east-west football game, may not return to the University of Indiana as head coach and may instead be coach at Annapolis. Ingram is an Annapolis graduate.

Ingram said that he was not in communication with naval academy officials and could not discuss going there until he had received an offer.

Jonas Ingram, elder brother of Bill, is the new athletic officer at Annapolis, and is rumored active in behalf of his brother. Appointment of a coach, however, rests with the athletic board, composed of naval officers. Ingram has not yet signed a five-year contract offered him by Indiana.

Firpo Signs for Bout With Spalla on Feb. 15

BUENOS AIRES.—Luis Angel Firpo the Argentine heavyweight, signed articles before the municipal boxing commission yesterday for a match against Erminio Spalla, the Italian pugilist, to be held in Buenos Aires during the first two weeks of March.

The contract provides that Firpo will receive 35 per cent of the gross receipts. Spalla agrees to be in Buenos Aires before Feb. 15.

Marriage Won't Hinder "Strib's" Ring Career

NEW YORK.—With a denial that his recent marriage meant his retirement from the ring, Billy Stribling, Georgia light heavyweight, told Tex Rickard that he would be ready within six weeks to meet Jimmy Slattery, Paul Berlenbach, Tom Gibbons or any other fighter picked and that he wanted to fight Jack Dempsey next summer.

The improved marketing methods adopted by American tanners have resulted in a large increase in the sales of leather in China.

Cornell Trims State

COLUMBUS — Cornell's basketball team defeated the Ohio State University quintet, 23 to 15, here Wednesday night.

Cubs Drop Pittinger

CHICAGO.—Clark Pittenger, Chicago Cubs infielder, has been released to the Louisville American association club as part payment in the deal for Shortston Maurice Shannon.

Finland Sends Ice King to Test U. S. and Canadian Stars

Clas Thunberg, Finland's "Nurmi of the Ice," has come to the U. S. to meet the leading skating stars of this country and Canada in five championship meets. The first two will be at the new Madison Square Garden, New York City, Jan. 14-16. Joe Moore, international indoor title holder; Charles Jewtraw, winner of the 500-meter event in the 1924 Olympic games, and Charles Gorman, Canadian champion, are among the stars expected to match speed with Thunberg.

STECHER GETS O. K. AS MAT CHAMPION

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—The noble sport of catch-as-can miss, otherwise wrestling, witnessed quite an upheaval during the 1925 season and for a long time the so-called "wrestling trust" knew not what to do about it. Strangler Lewis started the year as the heavyweight champion but hooked up with Wayne "Big" Munn, former University of Nebraska athlete, and the Strangler was tossed about shamefully.

Finally, he was thrown out of the ring, out of the title and into a hospital. Some cynics intimated that the whole thing smacked of the theatrical and saw fit to doubt the legitimacy of Munn's title to the honor.

In any case, he didn't last long. He took on the elderly Zbyszko in Philadelphia and Stanislaus proceeded to polish—or Polish—the young man off in straight falls. Munn also claimed bad faith, or something, but nothing was done about it.

And now the New York commission recognizes Joe Stecher as champion.

All Stars Play San Diego Team

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 31.—The all-star east grid team that went down to a fighting defeat, 6 to 0, before the attack of the western stars here Saturday, will play a navy team in San Diego tomorrow.

"Navy Bill" Ingram, coach of the eastern eleven, announced he would lead his aggregation against the selected navy team under auspices of San Diego naval authorities for benefit of the navy relief board.

Analysis of the game here as a benefit for the Shrine hospital disclosed that the western line is to be credited with the victory. Although western backs made more gains than did the eastern collection of stars, the eastern line did not hold as did that of the west—and that was the story of the game.

As a result of the success of the east-west clash, from point of interest and performance, local football followers announced they will seek to perpetuate such matchers in this city.

COLGATE DENIES PICKING COACH

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—In spite of reports that Colgate's football coach for 1926 would be selected at a meeting here, members of the athletic council have denied that the matter would come up for consideration for some time. The vacancy was created by the resignation of Dick Harlow to accept an offer from Western Maryland.

Tennis Champ Starts European Tirp Today

Evans to Coach Bishop Matmen

DELAWARE, Dec. 31.—Miles Evans, football line coach, has been named to take charge of the varsity wrestling team at Ohio Wesleyan university here where wrestling is being introduced as an intercollegiate sport for the first time this year, athletic officials announced here today.

Ohio Wesleyan is entering the intercollegiate wrestling game in a small way this year its schedule consisting of a dual meet with the University of Cincinnati at Cincinnati February 3, a dual meet with Ohio at Athens February 19 and the first wrestling tournament of the newly formed Buckeye Athletic association which is to be held at Edwards gymnasium under the auspices of Ohio Wesleyan March 2.

Ohio Wesleyan has promising material in all four wrestling classes recognized in the Buckeye association but all the candidates for the teams are inexperienced wrestling having been merely an intramural sport at Ohio Wesleyan until this year.

A new railway extension, two and one-half miles long, in England, operates 40 trains daily.

Venezuela's foreign trade tops all records.

KANSAS CITY LAD IN SEMI-FINALS

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Still the reigning sensation of the tournament as a result of winning five matches in singles and doubles yesterday, Warren Coen, Jr., fourteen-year-old star from Kansas City, today was in the semi-final round of the National Junior Indoor Tennis championships, one bracket ahead of his field. He will meet the winner of the Eugene McCauliff-Julius Seligson match in the semi final round this afternoon. The finals will be played tomorrow.

HIGH SEXTET DEFEATED, 19-17

Kannall's 7 Field Goals Help Alumni Win.

In a closely fought contest that almost rivalled the main go for action and intensity, Alumni girls defeated high schools' sextet, 19 to 17, in the preliminary to the boys' game last night at the high school gymnasium.

Both teams developed effective passing and clever guarding. The shooting of Forward Kannall, of the Alumni, was the big factor in the defeat of the school girls. Miss Kannall dropped the leather through the hoop seven times for 14 of her team's 19 points.

Misses Imbrie and Gilliland shared honors as leading point makers for the losers. The former registered three field goals and two fouls and the latter made it two double deckers and a brace of fouls.

SHEA-KAPLAN IN BOUT FOR TITLE

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—Championship of the featherweight division will be at stake when Eddie Shea, local leather pusher, and K. O. Kid Kaplan, champion, meet in Cleveland February 26.

The bout will go 12 rounds to a decision.

Shea turned featherweight four months ago. Since that time he has scored four knockout victories. He was knocked out by Charles ("Phil") Rosenberg, champion of the bantamweight, last September in his last bantamweight battle.

Final arrangements for the go were made by telephone when Alvis, in conversation with Billy Fergus, Cleveland promoter, agreed to accept the terms of Kaplan's manager, Scotty Monteith, for a $25,000 guarantee for the champion.

Auto Speed Kings In Cinema Feature At The American

One of the world's most famous automobile race tracks—the Altoona Speedway—was turned into a motion picture location during the filming of the most stirring scenes in First National's "The Pace That Thrills," in which Ben Lyon and Mary Astor will be co-featured at the American theatre for three days, commencing today.

Not only was the track turned over to the company, but a group of the most noted automobile drivers spent an entire day coaching Ben Lyon in the art of automobile racing and in assisting in making the picture a success.

Peter de Paolo, Earl Cooper, Harry Hartz, Jerry Wonderlich, Leon Duray, Wade Morton, Frank Elliott, Davie Lewis, Dr. Shattuc—these were among the racing drivers who taught Ben some of their tricks. And all of them took part in a special automobile race staged for the picture the day after the recent annual spring races at the speedway.

"The Pace That Thrills" is a picture in which Lyon appears as a movie hero. The biggest thrill is an automobile race in which Ben proves his nerve by driving madly against professional drivers, ending his race when his car crashes through a section of the track that has caved in.

All of the automobile speed kings were anxious to have Ben drive their car, but the honor fell to Harry Hartz, and when "The Pace That Thrills" is thrown on the American screen Ben will be seen riding in Hartz's car.

Kearns Brands Scrap As "Publicity Stunt"

CHICAGO. — "A movie publicity stunt" is the term Jack Kearns applies to the articles signed by Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills for a fight in 1926. The champion's former manager declared that neither fighter wants to meet the other and predicted they never will get together in the ring.

$100,000 Insurance Given 40,000 A. & P. Tea Store Employes

A combination Christmas and New Year's gift totalling $100,000, was the present given by the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., to its 40,000 employes in the form of $1,000 to $10,000 will become effective January 1.

Supplanting the old self-insuring plan of the A. & P. in which a limited number of employes were insured, the new policies insure every member of the firm from the presidents down to the lowest paid clerks.

There are no conditional clauses in the policy, C. A. Brooks, president of the Pittsburgh district of the A. & P. explained, and the minute a man joins the company he is automatically insured. The insurance will be paid, should a man die, even tho his name has not been reported to the underwriters. A certification of his being employed by the A. & P. is all that is necessary.

When an employee is disabled—what is legally known as being "commercially dead"—the insurance will be paid, usually in monthly installments, until the face value of the policy is gone, Brooks said.

WHEN THE THERMOMETER HITS ZERO

You Want Heat Quick !!

Up on the Yukon, in "the cold that is forty below;" in New England where Whittier's "Snowbound" is re-enacted every year—in these and other cold weather districts, Heatrola has had the best chance to prove its worth.

That it has more than made good is proven by thousands of letters of praise from enthusiastic Heatrola owners in the cold northern states, Canada and Alaska.

Here in our own neighborhood are many other Heatrola owners who tell the same story of comfort, convenience, fuel economy.

Each year sees more home-owners turning to Heatrola. They have discovered that Heatrola heats the whole house to an even temperature; that Heatrola improves the appearance of any room; that it is easy to keep clean; that it uses no more fuel than a stove.

Q. How does the Belmont race track compare in length with the course on which the English Derby is run? J. C.

A. The length of the main track at Belmont is 1½ miles, 6 feet, 3 inches, which compares with the English Derby—1 mile, 881 yards. The Derby is run, however, on the Derby course which is open country and can not be compared with a race course as laid out in this country.

Q. Does the government accept and experiment with the inventions of private citizens? R. D.

A. Representative Bloom of New York is expected to introduce a bill in Congress providing for a bureau to accept and experiment with inventions offered to the government by private citizens. This bureau would give all such inventions the consideration they deserve. If established, the bureau would probably be made a part of some existing department as there is a growing sentiment against the formation of more independent organizations.

Q. When was the first game of baseball under electric light played? A. B. B.

A. It was played at Ft. Wayne, Ind., June 3, 1883. The game was played by Fort Wayne and Quincy, Ft. Wayne winning by a score of 19 to 11 in seven innings.

Q. What is the extent of the telephone business in the United States as to capital, number of employes, number of phones and miles of wire? W. G.

A. The following data are for January 1, 1925, and are partly estimated: Number of telephones, 16,072,500; miles of telephone wire, 46,500,000; number of employes in telephone service, 350,000; value of investment in telephone plants and equipment, $2,765,000,000.

Q. About how many cars of grapes are shipped out of California during the grape season each day? P. G. N.

A. The peak of this season's shipments of grapes from California occurred on September 24th, when 1,625 cars were billed out. If it had not been for the car shortage which developed two days later, this figure probably would have been exceeded. The heaviest day's shipments last year were 1,246 cars on September 18.

Q. Are there many women pharmacists in this country? E. S.

A. Pharmacy has attracted women in small numbers, but is of increasing interest to them. In many hospitals the pharmicsts are women; women trained in pharmacy are working in government and industrial laboratories.

Q. What is the meaning of the name "moire?" A. M.

A. The name is applied in the case of silk finished with a watered or clouded effect. It is from the French word meaning wave. The terms "watered" and "moire" both are based upon the characteristic appearance, namely bright and dull in variegated patches like the wandering of spilled water. The fabric itself sometimes is taffeta, but is usually of a ribbed type as poplin.

Q. Which countries furnish the greatest number of aliens admitted into this country? G. E. N.

A. The principal races furnishing immigrant aliens in August, 1925, were German, 3,996; Irish, 3,577; English, 3,424; Mexican, 2,311; Scotch, 2,219; French, 1,698, and Scandinavian, 1,257.

Q. What composer had a piano with black keys instead of white? D. A. R.

A. The instrument in Haydn's home in Vienna has black keys where other pianos have white keys, and white keys for sharps and flats. The piano has no pedals.

Thurston, the famous magician, at the Ceramic theatre, Jan. 4 and 5. With matinee Tuesday.

THURSTON HERE JANUARY 4-5

Master Magician Will Appear at Ceramic Theatre.

Thurston, the master magician, will appear on his 20th annual tour at the Ceramic theater Monday and Tuesday, January 4 and 5, with Tuesday matinee.

In his particular field he stands without a peer. He surpasses Hermann and Kellar, and all the great magicians of bygone days and continues adding luster to his fame in undiminishing quantities from year to year. Only once in a generation does the artist-magician—of the Thurston type—the magician with the touch of genius, appear and when the public has accorded his recognition, his star remains in the ascendant as long as he cares to hold the boards.

Thurston has improved materially on the methods of the older magician. He is indefatigable in his efforts to give the public "a better show" each year. Nothing short of perfection satisfies him. This is exemplified in the unexampled finish of his performance.

He combines awe-inspiring mysteries, baffling and astounding illusions with deft touches of wit and comedy that add immensely to the satisfying nature of his entertainment.

Thurston has revived a number of mysteries that brought him fame and in addition has worked out many new illusions of the thrilling type, and requires the services of a company of 35, including a number of pretty girls and three 60-foot baggage cars to carry the immense amount of paraphernalia, animals, scenery and effects used in the hundred mysteries on this season's program, including the "Great East Indian Rope Trick," "Broadcasting a Woman's Beauty," the "Vanishing Horse," "Disintegration of a Human Form," "The Mystic Follies," "The Vanishing Donkey," "The Human Pin Cushion," "The Elastic Lady," "The Phantom Princess," who floats out over the stage into the orchestra, then vanishing like a cloud in thin air.

Three of the largest, richest Lutheran churches in New York are considering a merger, the combination to build a skyscraper with a church tucked away in it, according to modern ideas.

How would that impress Martin Luther, who says:

"For where God built a church, there the devil also would build a chapel."

If the Lutherans build a skyscraper church, would the devil find it necessary also to build a skyscraper chapel?

The J. G. White Engineering corporation undertakes a $300,000,000 irrigation scheme for Mexico. Anything that helps Mexico pleases us, but what about the waters of the Colorado river that wander wasted, through the United States and then down into Mexico?

As fast as she uses waters for irrigation, Mexico establishes an international right with which this country must not interfere.

While western states are fighting as to which shall have the water that goes to waste through the deep canyon, while private power companies block any use of that water, fearful that the people may get the benefit, Mexica will establish a claim and our states through which the great river passes will be informed that they must not draw off enough water to interfere with Mexico's established irrigation rights.

President Coolidge [illegible] himself in that. It [illegible] Canal and [illegible] New [illegible] of [illegible] fessors.

Eight men and nine women tried to kill themselves in Vienna on Christmas day. "General Misery" is the explanation. Gas was the favorite exit. Revolvers are so expensive. Jumping from a height is even cheaper and surer than gas. There is no turning back once you start down.

But those tired of life are usually weak in will, and it takes will to jump into space, men since their alleged early tree days having had bred in them an intense aversion to falling off the limb.

That, evolutionists say, is why we dream so often of falling, and it explains women's horror of snakes. The snakes could crawl out along the limb, and steal the sleeping baby from its mother. Any good evolutionist, of course, could prove to you that's nonsense.

New York intends to have another big bank, big enough, perhaps, to overshadow the National City, now the biggest bank in America.

The new combination, planned, it is said, by Clarence Dillon, of Dillon, Reed Co., would combine a number of banks totaling $900,000,000 in resources. Things are done, financially, on a big scale in these days.

Clarence Dillon, still a young man, is surprising big finaunce. He is the man who got the Dodge Motor Co., away from the chief powers in Wall street, that expected to swallow and pleasantly digest that useful organization.

Rev. James S. Montgomery, chaplain of the house of representatives, puts the modernist and fundamentalist problem in a few words:

"Modernists say, "there ain't no

NAB SUSPECT IN E. PALESTINE FLEECING IN CANADIAN CITY

Foreigner Victim of Old "Switching Package" Stunt.

ACCUSED JAILED

Louis Slomen Faces Charge of False Pretense.

John Ghuey, East Palestine, is bemoaning the loss of $1,500, while Louis Slomen, of Toronto, Canada, is a prisoner in the county jail at Lisbon today, as a result of an alleged confidence game.

Waives Extradition.

Slomen, who is charged with obtaining money under false pretense, was arrested at his home, 449 Manning avenue, Toronto, Saturday at the request of Cheriff George Wright. The sheriff left for Canada, Monday night, and returned to Lisbon last night with Slomen, who waived extradition.

According to county officials, Slomen is alleged to have gone to East Palestine on December 18 and told Chuey that his father had died in Europe recently and bequeathed his estate, which amounted to hundreds of thousands of dollars, to poor people who could furnish proof that they had been thrifty and saved their money. He it is claimed, produced a roll of bills, which appeared to be [illegible] $50 denominations.

Chuey showed his bank book, but Slomen asserted the book meant nothing and demanded to see the cash. Chuey went to an East Palestine bank where his money was deposited, and withdrew $1,500. He told police he showed the money to Slomen, who advised him to wrap it in a handkerchief and place it in his trunk, which he asserted would be a safe place to keep it.

Chuey did as instructed, according to his story, and the stranger left the house a few minutes later on the pretense of securing his dinner. Later in the day Chuey became suspicious and opened the trunk. In the handkerchief he found three $1 bills wrapped around a roll of newspapers cut in the shape of bank notes.

The victim immediately notified East Palestine police but the suspect had fled. The East Palestine officials reported Chuey's loss to the sheriff Saturday afternoon.

Sheriff Wright immediately communicated with the authorities at Toronto, asking that Slomen be arrested. A few hours later a telegram was received, advising the sheriff's office of the stranger's apprehension.

When Sheriff Wright reached Toronto Tuesday, Slomen agreed to return without extradition papers. At the border line, it was necessary to arraign the prisoner before an immigration officer who gave his consent for the return of Slomen to Ohio.

The warrant for Slomen's arrest was issued by Justice of the Peace O. L. Butts of East Palestine. The stranger was to be arraigned before Butts this afternoon.

WEIRTON MILL WORKER KILLED

Laborer is Crushed to Death by Door of Car.

Antonio Roson, 37, laborer, employed at the Weirton Steel company plant, was instantly killed early this morning when he was crushed about the body in the door of a dump car which he was unloading.

Roson, according to mill officials, instead of entering the car which was operated by air pressure, started to unload it from underneath when the door swung shut and caught his body.

The victim, who has no relatives in this country, had been employed in the mill for two weeks.

Coroner George A. Arner, of Chester, will conduct an inquest late this afternoon.

59-YEAR-OLD GRANDMOTHER HELD FOR MURDER OF 65-YEAR-OLD HUSBAND

Police Charge She Guided Plot to Kill Man Who "Was in Way" of Romance.

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—A complete and detailed confession of how Alfred Nusbaum, 65-year-old carpenter-contractor was lured through the theft of his automobile to the house where his 59-year-old wife, Eliza, was in the habit of meeting a lover many years her junior and there was killed with an ax was made in a new statement today by Edwin Goff, one of five persons under arrest.

Meanwhile more than 12 hours of persistent questioning had failed to shake the denials of John Walton Winn, Mrs. Nusbaum's lover, upon whom Goff and the others, except the widow, have laid the actual killing.

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—Dry-eyed in a cell, Mrs. Eliza Nusbaum, 59-year-old grandmother, waited today the results of police grilling of John Walton Winn, 37, her admitted ex-convict sweetheart, for further details on the murder of her husband, 65-year-old Albert Nusbaum, who "was in the way."

Only that she guided the amazing plot in which two women and two men were her aides has so far been admitted by Mrs. Nusbaum. So far, police are not certain who actually killed the well-to-do aged contractor, stripped and washed his body, clothed it in good clothes and dumped it on the waste of prairie land which was

DAN CUPID, WITH 602 WEDDINGS TO CREDIT, BREAKS 1925 RECORD

Stork's Calls in East Liverpool Total 636, While Grim Reaper Exacts 401.

Dan Cupid's record for marriages in Columbiana county during 1925 exceeded that of 1924 by 21, according to figures announced today by the marriage license bureau in the probate court's office at Lisbon.

During 1925, which does not include the last day of the year, however, 602 couples were licensed to wed. Last year 581 permits were issued.

While data regarding the residence of the applicants was not available, fully one-third of the newly wedded couples are from East Liverpool, according to the estimates.

The stork's calls in the city during the year just ending, numbered 636, while the same number of new arrivals was recorded last year. Death in 1925 numbered 401 as compared with 338 last year.

The four-month carpenter's strike in East Liverpool caused a slump in building permits, records at the city hall indicate. This year but 189 permits were issued, compared with 371 during 1924. No figures are available as to the cost of the new construction work in the two years.

Nine deaths were due to traffic accidents here during 1925 as compared with a toll of six lives taken in similar mishaps last year. There were no deaths due to alcoholic poisoning either year.

Mother Rescues Children.

Four other children, Everett, 14; Alonzo, 12; Allen, 10, and Harry, 4, who were sleeping in a bedroom, were rescued by their mother, who ran through the blazing home as the flames spread from the kitchen, where they originated.

The children, attired in their nightclothing, were rolled in a few blankets which were snatched from the bed, and placed on the snow-covered ground beyond the danger zone by the woman and her son, who despite his injuries, joined in the rescue work.

The father, who is employed as a laborer at the American Vitrified Products company's plant in East End, and another son, Merrill, an employe of the Crockery City Ice and Products company, were at work. Two other members of the family, a son and a daughter, are married and live in East Liverpool.

NAB SUSPECT IN E. PALESTINE FLEECING IN CANADIAN CITY

Foreigner Victim of Old "Switching Package" Stunt.

ACCUSED JAILED

Louis Slomen Faces Charge of False Pretense.

John Chuey, East Palestine, is bemoaning the loss of $1,500, while Louis Slomen, of Toronto, Canada, is a prisoner in the county jail at Lisbon today, as a result of an alleged confidence game.

Waives Extradition.

Slomen, who is charged with obtaining money under false pretense, was arrested at his home, 449 Manning avenue, Toronto, Saturday at the request of Cheriff George Wright. The sheriff left for Canada, Monday night, and returned to Lisbon last night with Slomen, who waived extradition.

According to county officials, Slomen is alleged to have gone to East Palestine on December 18 and told Chuey that his father had died in Europe recently and bequeathed his estate, which amounted to hundreds of thousands of dollars, to poor people who could furnish proof that they had been thrifty and saved their money. He, it is claimed, produced a roll of bills, which appeared to be [illegible] $50 denominations.

Chuey showed his bank book, but Slomen asserted the book meant nothing and demanded to see the cash. Chuey went to an East Palestine bank where his money was deposited, and withdrew $1,500. He told police he showed the money to Slomen, who advised him to wrap it in a handkerchief and place it in his trunk, which he asserted would be a safe place to keep it.

Chuey did as instructed, according to his story, and the stranger left the house a few minutes later on the pretense of securing his dinner. Later in the day Chuey became suspicious and opened the trunk. In the handkerchief he found three $1 bills wrapped around a roll of newspapers cut in the shape of bank notes.

The victim immediately notified East Palestine police but the suspect had fled. The East Palestine officials reported Chuey's loss to the sheriff Saturday afternoon.

Sheriff Wright immediately communicated with the authorities at Toronto, asking that Slomen be arrested. A few hours later a telegram was received, advising the sheriff's office of the stranger's apprehension.

When Sheriff Wright reached Toronto Tuesday, Slomen agreed to return without extradition papers. At the border line, it was necessary to arraign the prisoner before an immigration officer who gave his consent for the return of Slomen to Ohio.

The warrant for Slomen's arrest was issued by Justice of the Peace O. L. Butts of East Palestine. The stranger was to be arraigned before Butts this afternoon.

WEIRTON MILL WORKER KILLED

Laborer is Crushed to Death by Door of Car.

Antonio Roson, 37, laborer, employed at the Weirton Steel company plant, was instantly killed early this morning when he was crushed about the body in the door of a dump car which he was unloading.

Roson, according to mill officials, instead of entering the car which was operated by air pressure, started to unload it from underneath when the door swung shut and caught his body.

The victim, who has no relatives in this country, had been employed in the mill for two weeks.

Coroner George A. Arner, of Chester, will conduct an inquest late this afternoon.

59-YEAR-OLD GRANDMOTHER HELD FOR MURDER OF 65-YEAR-OLD HUSBAND

Police Charge She Guided Plot to Kill Man Who "Was in Way" of Romance.

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—A complete and detailed confession of how Alfred Nusbaum, 65-year-old carpenter-contractor was lured through the theft of his automobile to the house where his 59-year-old wife, Eliza, was in the habit of meeting a lover many years her junior and there was killed with an ax was made in a new statement today by Edwin Goff, one of five persons under arrest.

Meanwhile more than 12 hours of persistent questioning had failed to shake the denials of John Walton Winn, Mrs. Nusbaum's lover, upon whom Goff and the others, except the widow, have laid the actual killing.

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—Dry-eyed in a cell, Mrs. Eliza Nusbaum, 59-year-old grandmother, waited today the results of police grilling of John Walton Winn, 37, her admitted ex-convict sweetheart, for further details on the murder of her husband, 65-year-old Albert Nusbaum, who "was in the way."

Only that she guided the amazing plot in which two women and two men were her aides has so far been admitted by Mrs. Nusbaum. So far, police are not certain who actually killed the well-to-do aged contractor, stripped and washed his body, clothed it in good clothes and dumped it on the waste of prairie land which was

DAN CUPID, WITH 602 WEDDINGS TO CREDIT, BREAKS 1925 RECORD

Stork's Calls in East Liverpool Total 636, While Grim Reaper Exacts 401.

Dan Cupid's record for marriages in Columbiana county during 1925 exceeded that of 1924 by 21, according to figures announced today by the marriage license bureau in the probate court's office at Lisbon.

During 1925, which does not include the last day of the year, however, 602 couples were licensed to wed. Last year 581 permits were issued.

While data regarding the residence of the applicants was not available, fully one-third of the newly wedded couples are from East Liverpool, according to the estimates.

The stork's calls in the city during the year just ending, numbered 636, while the same number of new arrivals was recorded last year. Death in 1925 numbered 401 as compared with 338 last year.

The four-month carpenter's strike in East Liverpool caused a slump in building permits, records at the city hall indicate. This year but 189 permits were issued, compared with 371 during 1924. No figures are available as to the cost of the new construction work in the two years.

Nine deaths were due to traffic accidents here during 1925 as compared with a toll of six lives taken in similar mishaps last year. There were no deaths due to alcoholic poisoning either year.

METHUSELAH'S WIFE

THE STORY OF A GIRL WHO MARRIED FOR MONEY

By EDGAR POE NORRIS

© CENTRAL PRESS ASS'N

THIRTY-SEVEN.

News of the forthcoming ball got into the daily papers before Noble Harwood desired it. He found, upon irritated investigation, that a reporter, alive to the news value of anything concerning the wealthiest man in town, had based his story upon the order for engraved invitations placed through the newspaper's commercial printing department, which was the local representative of a Chicago engraving firm. Laurel, when telephoned by the reporter and asked to verify the story, had innocently supplied him with such details as Noble had sketchily gone over with her.

Noble was vastly annoyed about it when he came home to dinner. "Damn! It's all over town, and it'll be weeks before we can even send out invitations. What will people think?"

"Oh, everybody is sure to talk to every one else about it, and when they learn that no one else has received an invitation, they'll breathe easier.

"I'm sorry about it, dear," Laurel went on, feeling very badly about it. "I didn't think what I was doing when the reporter phoned. I thought, of course, that you had let the announcement get out."

"Oh, there was nothing else you could do but tell them, I suppose. I wish these damned reporters would keep their noses out of things."

"Please, honey dear, don't be angry and fussed. There's nothing to do now but make the best of it."

"The damned reporter got everything wrong," Noble growled.

"Let me see what he said," she took the paper from him and skimmed over the story on page one. She looked up, frowning. The details were substantially the same as those she had given the inquirer.

"We can't have a 'Louis XIV' motif!" he explained.

"Why, I thought that was what you were planning on."

"I suppose everybody is ordering a French court costume," he groaned. "But perhaps not," he suddenly grinned. "I think that most of them will wait until they get an invitation." He was thinking, with satisfaction, of his power in Central City society. Not every one could be sure they would be invited to Noble Harwood's affairs.

"But, honey, why not 'Louis XIV?'"

Laurel was irritated because he was making the plans and then telling her about them.

"Well, everybody would wear the same thing—I mean all the costumes would be the same style. We must have a motif allowing full freedom in costumes."

"I see what you mean. Why not a Mardi Gras ball, or a Venetian festival, or——?"

"I have a better idea. I think 'The Arabian Nights.'"

"Yes!" Her eyes lighted. "You can come as Douglas Fairbanks."

"And in the midst of it, a great feast," he continued, without noticing her remark. "The distinctive dishes and foods of every nation. Capers and truffles and marrons, pate-de-fois gras, bar-le-luc, wines from France; pickled herrings; frankfurters, pumper-nickel, lebkuchen, marzipan, from Germany; champommes, Gruyere, Emmenthal, from Switzerland. . ."

"I sometimes think that food means more to you than anything else," she observed.

"Don't interrupt me! Caviar, from Russia; plum pudding, marmalade, Stilton and Cheddar cheese, biscuits, from England—and a whole roasted beef; bacon, from Ireland; oatcakes, short-bread, jams, from Scotland; raisins, almonds, olives, pimento, olive oil, anchovies, from Spain; sardines, from Portugal; figs, sweets, cigarettes, from Turkey; fish balls, mackerel, from Norway. . . ."

"But dear, you don't suppose everybody is going to eat all of that, do you?"

"I want something for every one's palate. And to continue—From Italy, carciofini, antipasto, gorgonzola cheese, Naples filberts, vermouth, broccoli; curries from India; wines from Greece, turtle meat, from the Gulf of Mexico, packed in salted Sherry wine; crab meat from Japan; pintades from Brazil; caviar from Russia—."

"Now you're repeating. Aren't you going to have anything from America?"

"Yes, America's most popular dishes, ham and eggs and baked beans. Also hot dogs."

"But that's not fair."

"Well, name other American dishes that are more popular. Flapjacks?" There was a note of contempt in his voice.

"We've talked enough about food. . . . What are we going to wear?"

"I haven't decided," he replied. Then, seeing her eyes, he hastily went on, "I mean I haven't any idea. What do you suggest?"

"I suppose," she bantered, "that since this is going to be a Bagdad ball, you'll have to be a caliph and I one of the harem, or a slave girl."

"Perhaps," he replied, smiling, "it would be better for us to go as Methuselah and wife."

Laurel colored. It was the first indication he had ever given her that he knew the sobriquet.

Noble's face sobered and he spoke seriously to Laurel: "You don't mind, do you dear, because the ball is being given for Marion?"

"Why, of course not, precious. Whatever made that occur to you?"

"I don't want you to feel——."

"Please, honey, it hurts me for you to think that—I—."

"I suppose it's foolish to be launching her socially now. She ought to be in school. She knows absolutely nothing."

"Oh, she's very clever, Noble."

"I hope you sincerely think so. She seems to me to be a little fool. God help the man she marries!"

Laurel thought of Wyman Holt. "I'm only a little older—a year," she murmured, suggestively.

"Yes, but you were educated, and trained at home, and she—well, she is just like her mother."

There was silence between them for a moment.

"I suppose you know, my dear, that the former Mrs. Harwood is coming to town." It was the first time Noble had spoken of the visit to Laurel.

"Yes," she said simply.

"I suppose," he said, hesitantly, "we will have to invite her to the ball—because of Marion."

"Yes. . . ." There was a certain ominous tone in her assent.

DON'T GET UP NIGHTS

John Lumpkins, Dayton, Ohio, says: "Come to 7 Carrie St., and I will show you 25 pieces of gravel that passed after taking Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula). Had to get up 15 times at night for two years. Alright now." Lithiated Buchu cleanses the bladder like Epsom Salts do the bowels, thereby relieving irritation, driving out foreign matter and neutralizing excessive acids. These are the causes of unnatural action of the bladder at night. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) is not a cheap medicine. The tablets cost 2 cents each. Sold at leading drug stores or Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio. Locally at J. D. Holloway, druggist.

METHUSELAH'S WIFE

THE STORY OF A GIRL WHO MARRIED FOR MONEY

By EDGAR PUG NORRIS

© CENTRAL PRESS ASS'N

THIRTY-SEVEN.

News of the forthcoming ball got into the daily papers before Noble Harwood desired it. He found, upon irritated investigation, that a reporter, alive to the news value of anything concerning the wealthiest man in town, had based his story upon the order for engraved invitations placed through the newspaper's commercial printing department, which was the local representative of a Chicago engraving firm. Laurel, when telephoned by the reporter and asked to verify the story, had innocently supplied him with such details as Noble had sketchily gone over with her.

Noble was vastly annoyed about it when he came home to dinner. "Damn! It's all over town, and it'll be weeks before we can even send out invitations. What will people think?"

"Oh, everybody is sure to talk to every one else about it, and when they learn that no one else has received an invitation, they'll breathe easier.

"I'm sorry about it, dear," Laurel went on, feeling very badly about it. "I didn't think what I was doing when the reporter phoned. I thought, of course, that you had let the announcement get out."

"Oh, there was nothing else you could do but tell them, I suppose. I wish these damned reporters would keep their noses out of things."

"Please, honey dear, don't be angry and fussed. There's nothing to do now but make the best of it."

"The damned reporter got everything wrong," Noble growled.

"Let me see what he said," she took the paper from him and skimmed over the story on page one. She looked up, frowning. The details were substantially the same as those she had given the inquirer.

"We can't have a 'Louis XIV' motif!" he explained.

"Why, I thought that was what you were planning on."

"I suppose everybody is ordering a French court costume," he groaned. "But perhaps not," he suddenly grinned. "I think that most of them will wait until they get an invitation." He was thinking, with satisfaction, of his power in Central City society. Not every one could be sure they would be invited to Noble Harwood's affairs.

"But, honey, why not 'Louis XIV?'"

Laurel was irritated because he was making the plans and then telling her about them.

"Well, everybody would wear the same thing—I mean all the costumes would be the same style. We must have a motif allowing full freedom in costumes."

"I see what you mean. Why not a Mardi Gras ball, or a Venetian festival, or——?"

"I have a better idea, I think. 'The Arabian Nights.'"

"Yes!" Her eyes lighted. "You can come as Douglas Fairbanks."

"And in the midst of it, a great feast," he continued, without noticing her remark. "The distinctive dishes and foods of every nation. Capers and truffles and marrons, pate-de fois gras, bar-le-luc, wines from France; pickled herrings; frankfurters, pumper-nickel, lebkuchen, marzipan, from Germany; champommes, Gruyere, Emmenthal, from Switzerland. . ."

"I sometimes think that food means more to you than anything else," she observed.

"Don't interrupt me! Caviar, from Russia; plum pudding, marmalade, Stilton and Cheddar cheese, biscuits, from England—and a whole roasted beef; bacon, from Ireland; oatcakes, short bread, jams, from Scotland; raisins, almonds, olives, pimento, olive oil, anchovies, from Spain; sardines, from Portugal; figs, sweets, cigarettes, from Turkey; fish balls, mackerel, from Norway. . . ."

"But dear, you don't suppose everybody is going to eat all of that, do you?"

"I want something for every one's palate. And to continue—From Italy, carciofini, antipasto, gorgonzola cheese, Naples filberts, vermouth, broccoli; curries from India; wines from Greece, turtle meat, from the Gulf of Mexico, packed in salted Sherry wine; crab meat from Japan; pintades from Brazil; caviar from Russia—."

"Now you're repeating. Aren't you going to have anything from America?"

"Yes, America's most popular dishes, ham and eggs and baked beans. Also hot dogs."

"But that's not fair."

"Well, name other American dishes that are more popular. Flapjacks?" There was a note of contempt in his voice.

"We've talked enough about food. . . . What are we going to wear?"

"I haven't decided," he replied. Then, seeing her eyes, he hastily went on, "I mean I haven't any idea. What do you suggest?"

"I suppose," she bantered, "that since this is going to be a Bagdad ball, you'll have to be a caliph and I one of the harem, or a slave girl."

"Perhaps," he replied, smiling, "it would be better for us to go as Methuselah and wife."

Laurel colored. It was the first indication he had ever given her that he knew the sobriquet.

Noble's face sobered and he spoke seriously to Laurel: "You don't mind, do you dear, because the ball is being given for Marion?"

"Why, of course not, precious. Whatever made that occur to you?"

"I don't want you to feel——."

"Please, honey, it hurts me for you to think that—I—."

"I suppose it's foolish to be launching her socially now. She ought to be in school. She knows absolutely nothing."

"Oh, she's very clever, Noble."

"I hope you sincerely think so. She seems to me to be a little fool. God help the man she marries!"

Laurel thought of Wyman Holt. "I'm only a little older—a year," she murmured, suggestively.

"Yes, but you were educated, and trained at home, and she—well, she is just like her mother."

There was silence between them for a moment.

"I suppose you know, my dear, that the former Mrs. Harwood is coming to town." It was the first time Noble had spoken of the visit to Laurel.

"Yes," she said simply.

"I suppose," he said, hesitantly, "we will have to invite her to the ball—because of Marion."

"Yes. . . ." There was a certain ominous tone in her assent.

DON'T GET UP NIGHTS

John Lumpkins, Dayton, Ohio, says: "Come to 7 Carrie St., and I will show you 25 pieces of gravel that passed after taking Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula). Had to get up 15 times at night for two years. Alright now." Lithiated Buchu cleanses the bladder like Epsom Salts do the bowels, thereby relieving irritation, driving out foreign matter and neutralizing excessive acids. These are the causes of unnatural action of the bladder at night. Lithiated Buchu (Keller Formula) is not a cheap medicine. The tablets cost 2 cents each. Sold at leading drug stores or Keller Laboratory, Mechanicsburg, Ohio. Locally at J. D. Holloway, druggist.

MONEY SET ASIDE FOR RURAL WORK

Director H. G. Knight, of the West Virginia experiment station, will call together during Farmers' Week at Morgantown, the committees of the various participating organizations to consider the state needs in home conomics, rural sociology and rural economics. This is for the purpose of seeing to what further good use West Virginia's appropriation of $20,000 from the Purnell fund can be put. Next year this amount will be increased to $30,000. This money is given the experiment station for investigation in rural problems in economics and sociology. Some of it has already been used to state experiments, but part of it is still available and Director Knight is anxious to use it to the best possible advantage, so he is calling in state people to find out what they think is most needed.

Knight, of the West Virginia experiment station, will call together during Farmers' Week at Morgantown, the committees of the various participating organizations to consider the state needs in home conomics, rural sociology and rural economics. This money is given the experiment station for investigation in rural problems in economics and sociology. Some of it has already been used to state experiments, but part of it is still available and Director Knight is anxious to use it to the best possible advantage, so he is calling in state people to find out what they think is most needed.

EAST LIVERPOOL — AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1925.

New Year's Day

East Liverpool today says goodbye to 1925 and prepares to usher in the New Year.

And while the dying year has not been as satisfactory from an industrial standpoint as many others within the memory of pottery manufacturers and merchants, yet it has been characterized by many favorable developments for which we should be thankful. With business improvement noticeable throughout the country, the ceramic industry is certain to share in the trade impetus that is expected early in 1926.

Newspaper readers today and tomorrow will real the customary holiday editorials. Many give them a hasty glance, say to themselves "More Bunk" and move on to the murders, society items, death notices, advertising and other really interest parts of the paper.

But is it really bunk to talk of peace on earth? Is it bunk to talk of good will? Is it bunk to talk of fresh beginnings? Of closing old books and opening the new ones with a strengthened purpose?

But down in their hearts most people do not believe it is. There is too much talk of bunk these days; too much relegating anything we happen not to like at the moment to the bunk pile.

And bunk is any attempt to influence people through their surface emotions to do what their minds, if used, would repudiate.

But any attempt to urge people to forget those things which are behind, to stretch forward to those which are before, to press on to the goal, to the prize of their high calling, partakes, in however small degree, of inspiration.

And so, on New Year's Day, once more we suggest that it is well to keep on trying. It is not well to forget the past in the sense of throwing away its lessons, but it is well in the sense of ceasing to worry about it, ceasing to let it clog us. Today is here. Tomorrow shows a clean page. The New Year offers its new opportunity. Let us press forward toward the prize.

Wishing Municipal Court Success

Marking a decided innovation in the East Liverpool district, a municipal court will begin to function here on New Year's Day. And with its establishment, made possible by legislative enactment, five justices of the peace will retire as magistrates, while the incoming mayor, Ralph C. Benedum, will be free to devote his attention to problems other than the humdrum of police court.

With the moral support of the Southern Columbiana County Bar association, Trades and Labor Council, Chamber of Commerce, the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions' clubs and other civic organizations, the new tribunal will be formally opened on the third floor of the Thompson building, Fourth and Market streets, at 10 o'clock Friday morning.

The administration of justice in the new court is in capable hands. Judge-elect Jesse C. Hanley, former prosecuting attorney of Columbiana county, is well qualified for the honor bestowed upon him by the electors. Miss Ruth I. Finnie, the clerk-elect, will bring into the office her experience as secretary to Justice-P. V. Mackall, one of the five magistrates whose offices are abolished by the Carpenter-Emmons law. Likewise, the bailiff, Carman D. Hissam, is familiar with the duties of his position by reason of his service on the police force. Miss Lulu Bennett, the stenographer, is no stranger to court work. Mrs. May Joseph and Thomas Hindle are the jury commissioners.

With the assumption of the work of the justices of the peace as well as the hearing of all police cases, not to mention the addition of many civil actions which heretofore have been heard in common pleas court, Lisbon, the court attaches have a great responsibility. But the public has confidence in their ability to discharge the obligation.

May the municipal court be a success from every standpoint, is the New Year's wish of the Review-Tribune.

Russia On Disarmament

Soviet Russia accepts the invitation to the international arms conference, though as might be expected, rather ungraciously. Says a Russian official:

"While we are still skeptical of the European nations' real desire for disarmament, we are willing to make another effort to establish general peace and economic co-operation among all mankind.

"With this end in view we are ready to put before the conference a concrete and definite plan representing the Russian people's earnest desire for peace, a new social order, a firm economic foundation for the world."

That's all right. The other powers, including America, while still skeptical of Russia's real desire for disarmament, are willing to make another effort to establish peace and economic co-operation with the government at Moscow. With this end in view, they are ready to put before Russia a concrete and definite plan representing the rest of the world's earnest desire for peace, a workable social order and a firm economic foundation for the world. In this they hope Russia will condescend to join, for her own good as well as theirs.

The latest permanent wave is a cold wave.

Years always look good when they're young.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—It is not altogether necessary to go to the theater to see a favorite stage player. Some of the big stars hace been appearing in night clubs where the touch is more intimate. They may even join you at a table.

This doubling up process is frowned upon by producers and in a few instances stopped by legal injunction. Such names as Francis Williams, Sterling Holloway, Web and Hay, Foss and Montana, the Astairs, Chic Sale, Fowler and Tamara, Ukelele Ike and others have appeared on night club programs.

The salaries are said to be higher than those paid on the legitimate stage and for a much briefer public view. One actor was paid twice his salary by a club and when his theatrical manager objected he quit the stage.

So serious has the "double exposure" grown that almost all new contracts now prevent supper club appearance. It is said Al Jolson was offered $20,000 a week to appear at one of the nocturnal mosques and Marilyn Miller a similar amount.

Forty men in the millionaire division are said to be backing an exclusive night club known as "The Forty-second Street Country club." It will provide a lavish entertainment to a limited number, and it is believed may be able to avoid the click of a padlock.

The producer objects to the town's garlands being flung at the feet of their stars in what they regard as tawdry atmosphere. It cheapens them, they feel. Of course many of stellar proportions have come from the cabaret, but going back is something else.

The club managers say they can fill their places nightly by presenting a real star and that a $4 couvert charge is not resented. Perhaps the custom among some of the players of calling out patrons by name adds to the popularity of the idea. The New Yorker loves to be noticed.

In New York clubs, incidentally, the flask is rarely seen these days. The men bring their joy water in ordinary water bottles and the women carry cheapest sort of evening bags. Raids are almost always made while the crowds are on the dance floor, so flasks will be found on tables. Now the patrons merely walk on out, leaving bottles and bags for the management to laugh off.

The biggest Chinese store is at 16 Mott street. It fills a six-story building and owns the fashionable Vantine's, on the avenue. It is a place where one is never asked to buy. Tourists may spend hours there and not be approached with a sale suggestion. It has been in existence more than 30 years and its proprietors are millionaires.

Now that Brown's chop house has gone the way of nearly all old New York institutions, about the only English tavern place giving the air of antiquity is Keene's. It was once the home of the Lambs' club before they erected their own building. One of the picture frames on the wall holds a bloodstained playbill—said to have been the one held by Lincoln when he was assassinated watching "Our American Cousin." There is one in London and another in Chicago which are claimed to be the originals.

All of which recalls the sign that has hung for years in a Broadway curio shop window reading: "Modern antiques."

A town in Jersey is said to have a factory specializing in antiques and early American furniture which is not only sold in New York, but all over the world. In Mexico City several years ago I saw a crate being unpacked in an antique shop. It came from Elgin, Ill., and contained a brass-hinged cedar chest filagreed with elegant worm holes.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Uncle Sam's Coal Resources.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 31.—The United States government is the richest owner of coal property in the world. In accordance with its policy of conservation the coal lands withdrawn by the government are being held, although they are open to lease, against the day when the private mines of the country become barren. And it is planned to release these lands for the benefit of the public according to a well regulated plan to that, at least for centuries to come, America will not face a coal shortage of any proportions or one that will be more than an ephemeral affair caused by a temporary strike.

For, although the anthracite mines of Pennsylvania may kick up a quantity of trouble in the shape of a war between operators and miners, the United States is sitting on enough coal to provide the country should anything serious develop. But it will not be inveigled into loosening its grip on this coal because of a mere strike. Strikes come and go, but the need of coal probably will go on forever, and any foolish letting down of the barriers would start something the government would not be able to finish.

The first coal land law was passed in 1873. It provided for the sale of 160 acres at not less than $10.00 per acre. This law was used until 1905 when the general public realized that, under the homestead law, great areas were being obtained by private individuals, who were taking advantage of the government. In other words the homestead act was an agricultural law, calculated to stimulate the settling of unoccupied sections of the country by giving fairly arable land to a person, but in many cases these people were disregarding mineral rights.

Therefore, in 1906, the president ordered the secretary of the interior to withdraw all public coal land. In accordance with this order, all land suspected of containing coal deposits beneath it was withdrawn for conservation by the government. This land was placed under the jurisdiction of the secretary of the interior.

Approximately 63,000,000 acres were withdrawn under this act, of which about 32,000,000 have since been classified and catalogued as coal lands, while the remainder is unclassified but is being held, pending the outcome of investigation as to its coal properties.

Sale Law Mondified.

After 1906 the sale law passed in 1873 held good, but was modified to include an evaluation clause which specified that each tract sold must be catalogued as being of definite value, and disposed of accordingly.

In 1920, however, to further the policy of conservation, and at the same time utilize the immense coal resources, a lease law was passed. This act provided for the leasing of lands at auction, and superseded the old sale law. It set the maximum area of land to be leased to one person or organization at 2560 acres. At the present time about 81,000 acres are under lease, their potential coal tonnage being about 790,000,000. The minimum annual production from these lands is about 4,000,000 tons. There are now 211 leases on government coal lands.

The largest producer of coal from public lands in 1924 was the State of Wyoming, the amount being 792,000 tons, or more than 11 per cent of all the coal produced in the state. Colorado produced the second largest tonnage. A total of 275,000 tons came from leased government coal lands in that state.

Utah was third in the list, the amount produced being 181,000 tons, while North Dakota records showed a production of 153,000 tons from public lands.

Most of the government coal lands are in the Western states—Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, North Dakota, Montana, Washington, New Mexico, South Dakota, and Oregon, given in the order of their production. The government receives a royalty of ten cents per ton on every ton mined from leased lands.

There are also government coal lands in the state of Alebama. The greatest part of all leasable lands contains bituminous coal.

How Leases Are Safeguarded.

The government royalty precludes any freeze-out methods on the part of the lessee. Likewise there are certain stipulations he must comply with in leasing the lands. If one man happened to control the entire 81,000 acres now under lease and attempted to hold them idle in order to fight a competitor, he would have to pay something like $400,000 whether he mined an ounce, a rather large price for what he would get. Likewise any homesteader settling on land known to contain coal, or included within the general withdrawal has no jurisdiction over mineral rights, which, of course, include coal mining rights. Since the passage of the leasing law five years ago, one twentieth of the coal mined in the public land states comes from mines operated under government leases, and this figure is growing annually.

Included in this leasing law are clauses pertaining to other products, such as oil, gas, lead, zinc, phospate, and shale.

The United States now owns 500,000 acres of phosphate lands, which can supply 8,000,000,000 tons of this essential fertilizer, when it is needed by the American people. This will become an invaluable asset in the future when farm lands, due to the continuous use involved in crop yields, become sterile.

There are 4,000,000 acres of oil shale in the public domain, from which it is estimated 60,000,000,000 barrels of oil may be extracted when demand and price warrant the higher cost of its development. Before that time, however, there are millions of barrels yet to come from oil wells on government land, the amount now being taken from public and Indian lands representing one-tenth of the national production. There are now 422 outstanding leases on oil and gas lands.

Twenty per cent of the zinc mined in the United States and 8 per cent of the lead come from Indian lands under the supervision of the department of the interior. Also the public domain contains hundreds of water-power sites potentially aggregating 25,000,000 horsepower.

All these are guarded by the conservation policy now being applied by the government through the new conservation branch of the department of the interior. This branch falls in the geological survey division and its personnel is made up of geologists and engineers designated to act as technical advisers and administrators in the classification of these public lands. Their duties also include inspecting the mining operations and cooperating with private operators to prevent the waste in production of minerals on the public domain.

EAST LIVERPOOL — AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 31, 1925.

New Year's Day

East Liverpool today says goodbye to 1925 and prepares to usher in the New Year.

And while the dying year has not been as satisfactory from an industrial standpoint as many others within the memory of pottery manufacturers and merchants, yet it has been characterized by many favorable developments for which we should be thankful. With business improvement noticeable throughout the country, the ceramic industry is certain to share in the trade impetus that is expected early in 1926.

Newspaper readers today and tomorrow will real the customary holiday editorials. Many give them a hasty glance, say to themselves "More Bunk" and move on to the murders, society items, death notices, advertising and other really interest parts of the paper.

But is it really bunk to talk of peace on earth? Is it bunk to talk of good will? Is it bunk to talk of fresh beginnings? Of closing old books and opening the new ones with a strengthened purpose?

But down in their hearts most people do not believe it is. There is too much talk of bunk these days; too much relegating anything we happen not to like at the moment to the bunk pile.

And bunk is any attempt to influence people through their surface emotions to do what their minds, if used, would repudiate.

But any attempt to urge people to forget those things which are behind, to stretch forward to those which are before, to press on to the goal, to the prize of their high calling, partakes, in however small degree, of inspiration.

And so, on New Year's Day, once more we suggest that it is well to keep on trying. It is not well to forget the past in the sense of throwing away its lessons, but it is well in the sense of ceasing to worry about it, ceasing to let it clog us. Today is here. Tomorrow shows a clean page. The New Year offers its new opportunity. Let us press forward toward the prize.

Wishing Municipal Court Success

Marking a decided innovation in the East Liverpool district, a municipal court will begin to function here on New Year's Day. And with its establishment, made possible by legislative enactment, five justices of the peace will retire as magistrates, while the incoming mayor, Ralph C. Benedum, will be free to devote his attention to problems other than the humdrum of police court.

With the moral support of the Southern Columbiana County Bar association, Trades and Labor Council, Chamber of Commerce, the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters, Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions' clubs and other civic organizations, the new tribunal will be formally opened on the third floor of the Thompson building, Fourth and Market streets, at 10 o'clock Friday morning.

The administration of justice in the new court is in capable hands. Judge-elect Jesse C. Hanley, former prosecuting attorney of Columbiana county, is well qualified for the honor bestowed upon him by the electors. Miss Ruth I. Finnie, the clerk-elect, will bring into the office her experience as secretary to Justice-P. V. Mackall, one of the five magistrates whose offices are abolished by the Carpenter-Emmons law. Likewise, the bailiff, Carman D. Hissam, is familiar with the duties of his position by reason of his service on the police force. Miss Lulu Bennett, the stenographer, is no stranger to court work. Mrs. May Joseph and Thomas Hindle are the jury commissioners.

With the assumption of the work of the justices of the peace as well as the hearing of all police cases, not to mention the addition of many civil actions which heretofore have been heard in common pleas court, Lisbon, the court attaches have a great responsibility. But the public has confidence in their ability to discharge the obligation.

May the municipal court be a success from every standpoint, is the New Year's wish of the Review-Tribune.

Russia On Disarmament

Soviet Russia accepts the invitation to the international arms conference, though as might be expected, rather ungraciously. Says a Russian official:

"While we are still skeptical of the European nations' real desire for disarmament, we are willing to make another effort to establish general peace and economic co-operation among all mankind.

"With this end in view we are ready to put before the conference a concrete and definite plan representing the Russian people's earnest desire for peace, a new social order, a firm economic foundation for the world."

That's all right. The other powers, including America, while still skeptical of Russia's real desire for disarmament, are willing to make another effort to establish peace and economic co-operation with the government at Moscow. With this end in view, they are ready to put before Russia a concrete and definite plan representing the rest of the world's earnest desire for peace, a workable social order and a firm economic foundation for the world. In this they hope Russia will condescend to join, for her own good as well as theirs.

The latest permanent wave is a cold wave.

Years always look good when they're young.

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—It is not altogether necessary to go to the theater to see a favorite stage player. Some of the big stars hace been appearing in night clubs where the touch is more intimate. They may even join you at a table.

This doubling up process is frowned upon by producers and in a few instances stopped by legal injunction. Such names as Francis Williams, Sterling Holloway, Web and Hay, Foss and Montana, the Astairs, Chic Sale, Fowler and Tamara, Ukelele Ike and others have appeared on night club programs.

The salaries are said to be higher than those paid on the legitimate stage and for a much briefer public view. One actor was paid twice his salary by a club and when his theatrical manager objected he quit the stage.

So serious has the "double exposure" grown that almost all new contracts now prevent supper club appearance. It is said Al Jolson was offered $20,000 a week to appear at one of the nocturnal mosques and Marilyn Miller a similar amount.

Forty men in the millionaire division are said to be backing an exclusive night club known as "The Forty-second Street Country club." It will provide a lavish entertainment to a limited number, and it is believed may be able to avoid the click of a padlock.

The producer objects to the town's garlands being flung at the feet of their stars in what they regard as tawdry atmosphere. It cheapens them, they feel. Of course many of stellar proportions have come from the cabaret, but going back is something else.

The club managers say they can fill their places nightly by presenting a real star and that a $4 convert charge is not resented. Perhaps the custom among some of the players of calling out patrons by name adds to the popularity of the idea. The New Yorker loves to be noticed.

In New York clubs incidentally, the flask is rarely seen these days. The men bring their joy water in ordinary water bottles and the women carry cheapest sort of evening bags. Raids are almost always made while the crowds are on the dance floor, so flasks will be found on tables. Now the patrons merely walk on out, leaving bottles and bags for the management to laugh off.

The biggest Chinese store is at 16 Mott street. It fills a six-story building and owns the fashionable Vantine's, on the avenue. It is a place where one is never asked to buy. Tourists may spend hours there and not be approached with a sale suggestion. It has been in existence more than 36 years and its proprietors are millionaires.

Now that Brown's chop house has gone the way of nearly all old New York institutions, about the only English tavern place giving the air of antiquity is Keene's. It was once the home of the Lambs' club before they erected their own building. One of the picture frames on the wall holds a bloodstained playbill—said to have been the one held by Lincoln when he was assassinated watching "Our American Cousin." There is one in London and another in Chicago which are claimed to be the originals.

All of which recalls the sign that has hung for years in a Broadway curio shop window reading: "Modern antiques."

A town in Jersey is said to have a factory specializing in antiques and early American furniture which is not only sold in New York, but all over the world. In Mexico City several years ago I saw a crate being unpacked in an antique shop. It came from Elgin, Ill., and contained a brass hinged cedar chest filagreed with elegant worm holes.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Uncle Sam's Coal Resources.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 31.—The United States government is the richest owner of coal property in the world. In accordance with its policy of conservation the coal lands withdrawn by the government are being held, although they are open to lease, against the day when the private mines of the country become barren. And it is planned to release these lands for the benefit of the public according to a well regulated plan to that, at least for centuries to come, America will not face a coal shortage of any proportions or one that will be more than an ephemeral affair caused by a temporary strike.

For, although the anthracite mines of Pennsylvania may kick up a quantity of trouble in the shape of a war between operators and miners, the United States is sitting on enough coal to provide the country should anything serious develop. But it will not be inveigled into loosening its grip on this coal because of a mere strike. Strikes come and go, but the need of coal probably will go on forever, and any foolish letting down of the barriers would start something the government would not be able to finish.

The first coal land law was passed in 1873. It provided for the sale of 160 acres at not less than $10.00 per acre. This law was used until 1905 when the general public realized that, under the homestead law, great areas were being obtained by private individuals, who were taking advantage of the government. In other words the homestead act was an agricultural law, calculated to stimulate the settling of unoccupied sections of the country by giving fairly arable land to a person, but in many cases these people were disregarding mineral rights.

Therefore, in 1906, the president ordered the secretary of the interior to withdraw all public coal land. In accordance with this order, all land suspected of containing coal deposits beneath it was withdrawn for conservation by the government. This land was placed under the jurisdiction of the secretary of the interior.

Approximately 62,000,000 acres were withdrawn under this act, of which about 32,000,000 have since been classified and catalogued as coal lands, while the remainder is unclassified but is being held, pending the outcome of investigation as to its coal properties.

Sale Law Mondified.

After 1906 the sale law passed in 1873 held good, but was modified to include an evaluation clause which specified that each tract sold must be catalogued as being of definite value, and disposed of accordingly.

In 1920, however, to further the policy of conservation, and at the same time utilize the immense coal resources, a lease law was passed. This act provided for the leasing of lands at auction, and superseded the old sale law. It set the maximum area of land to be leased to one person or organization at 2560 acres. At the present time about 81,000 acres are under lease, their potential coal tonnage being about 790,000,000. The minimum annual production from these lands is about 4,000,000 tons. There are now 211 leases on government coal lands.

The largest producer of coal from public lands in 1924 was the State of Wyoming, the amount being 792,000 tons, or more than 11 per cent of all the coal produced in the state. Colorado produced the second largest tonnage. A total of 275,000 tons came from leased government coal lands in that state.

Utah was third in the list, the amount produced being 181,000 tons, while North Dakota records showed a production of 153,000 tons from public lands.

Most of the government coal lands are in the Western states—Wyoming, Colorado, Utah, North Dakota, Montana, Washington, New Mexico, South Dakota, and Oregon, given in the order of their production. The government receives a royalty of ten cents per ton on every ton mined from leased lands.

There are also government coal lands in the state of Alabama. The greatest part of all leasable lands contains bituminous coal.

How Leases Are Safeguarded.

The government royalty precludes any freeze-out methods on the part of the lessee. Likewise there are certain stipulations he must comply with in leasing the lands. If one man happened to control the entire 81,000 acres now under lease and attempted to hold them idle in order to fight a competitor, he would have to pay something like $400,000 whether he mined an ounce, a rather large price for what he would get. Likewise any homesteader settling on land known to contain coal, or included within the general withdrawal has no jurisdiction over mineral rights, which, of course, include coal mining rights. Since the passage of the leasing law five years ago, one twentieth of the coal mined in the public land states comes from mines operated under government leases, and this figure is growing annually.

Included in this leasing law are clauses pertaining to other products, such as oil, gas, lead, zinc, phospate, and shale.

The United States now owns 500,000 acres of phosphate lands, which can supply 8,000,000,000 tons of this essential fertilizer, when it is needed by the American people. This will become an invaluable asset in the future when farm lands, due to the continuous use involved in crop yields, become sterile.

There are 4,000,000 acres of oil shale in the public domain, from which it is estimated 60,000,000,000 barrels of oil may be extracted when demand and price warrant the higher cost of its development. Before that time, however, there are millions of barrels yet to come from oil wells on government land, the amount now being taken from public and Indian lands representing one-tenth of the national production. There are now 422 outstanding leases on oil and gas lands.

Twenty per cent of the zinc mined in the United States and 8 per cent of the lead come from Indian lands under the supervision of the department of the interior. Also the public domain contains hundreds of water-power sites potentially aggregating 25,000,000 horsepower.

All these are guarded by the conservation policy now being applied by the government through the new conservation branch of the department of the interior. This branch falls in the geological survey division and its personnel is made up of geologists and engineers designated to act as technical advisers and administrators in the classification of these public lands. Their duties also include inspecting the mining operations and cooperating with private operators to prevent the waste in production of minerals on the public domain.

AMERICAN DRY CZAR VISITS LIQUOR CENTER

Gen. Andrews Gets View of Situation in Havana.

EYE ON RUNNERS

U. S. Cutter Modoc Drops Anchor in Rum Supply Harbor.

HAVANA, Dec. 31.—For the first time since prohibition in the United States made liquor smuggling and selling the biggest criminal business in the Western Hemisphere, American prohibition officials had an opportunity today to get a close-up view of what is considered the greatest single supply center for international rum runners.

The U. S. cutter Modoc, bearing Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, the American dry czar, and a group of lesser officials, steamed through the narrow entrance to Havana harbor today and dropped anchor within the shadow of historic Moro Castle. Not far from where the Modoc stopped the battle ship Maine was blown up in 1898 and the war with Spain precipitated.

Gen. Andrews came to Havana with the frank purpose of surveying the Havana rum situation. This is the great supply center for Florida, Georgia, Alabama and the entire southeastern part of the United States, and also to some extent the upper Atlantic coast and New Jersey and New York. From this port the liquor-laden caravans go out silently day and night to try conclusions with the American coast guard. Andrews wants to see the procedure and investigate conditions first hand.

An official of the American embassy at Havana joined the Modoc at Key West.

A call was made on Ambassador Crowder, and arrangements made for a call on the president of Cuba tomorrow.

HEALTH BOARD HEARS REPORT

Commissioner Fraser Lists Contagious Disease Cases.

The annual report of Health Commissioner Dr. John A. Fraser, city health commissioner was submitted at the monthly meeting of the board of health, held in the clinic rooms in the Meredith building, last evening.

During the year 130 new cases were admitted to the clinic, which brings the total since the clinic opened up to 860. He said 1,608 male treatments and 513 female treatments were given in the clinic during the year.

The report on contagious and communicable diseases for 1925 showed the following totals: Scarlet fever, 44; tuberculosis, 28; measles, 16; smallpox, 11; diphtheria, 7; chickenpox, 6. Typhoid fever, 1; mumps, 1; tetanus, 1.

The December contagious disease report showed 14 cases of measles; eight cases smallpox; seven of scarlet fever; three of chickenpox and one each of tetanus and diphtheria. Twelve houses were fumigated and at the present time three cases of smallpox and three cases of scarlet fever are under quarantine. Twelve reports of contagious diseases in the schools were investigated. In the clinic 12 new cases were admitted, two old cases returned and 125 treatments given.

Births during the month exceeded deaths by more than two to one, the stork making 62 calls as compared with 27 deaths.

The board also approved the three-year garbage collection contract given Peter Milliron, Second street. Milliron has installed water tight wagons with sectional lids for this work. The board is preparing to publish rates to be charged for the collection.

Fire Damages Home Of Charles Lentz; Loss Placed at $500

Damage estimated at $500 was caused by fire at the home of Charles Lentz, corner Fifth street and Sugar alley at 10:20 o'clock last night.

The blaze was started by sparks from a chimney. Firemen from the Central station extinguished the fire with chemicals, but the contents of the room were rendered a total loss. The house itself was slightly damaged. The loss is covered by insurance.

hell.' Fundamentalists say, 'The hell there ain't.'"

The average man says: "There may or may not be such a super-heated resort. But to avoid running risks I shall behave decently."

You may add that he doesn't amount to much who refrains from sin only because he fears that he may go to hell.

Great Britain with her rubber monopoly takes from this country more than enough to pay her debt to us.

By way of reprisal the Massachusetts legislature is asked to drive out British insurance companies. Such talk is foolish. Uncle Sam, his pockets bulging with gold, and playing the part of a "cry baby," makes himself unnecessarily ridiculous.

Besides, in the California fire English insurance companies paid what they owed in full, which is more than can be said for some American companies.

Goodby to the horse. Los Angeles is the first city to have "no horse" streets. Washington forbids horse-drawn vehicles on four important thoroughfares. That will spread.

The horse is happier in the country, away from hard streets. He is no longer necessary in the city, no excuse for him. Even if he were a little cheaper for some work, which is doubtful, he should vanish. Get a truck.

neighbors, are dependent on friends today, while the mother and her children are worrying about a $2,000 mortgage which hangs over the 35-acre farm which they purchased about two years ago.

The fire followed the use of ground oil by Francis Alford in hastening a fire in an out-kitchen. The oil exploded when flames from the fire in the stove ignited the liquid as it was poured from a can. The blast scattered blazing oil over the boy's clothing and about the interior of the kitchen. The blaze then leaped across the narrow area way between the kitchen and the cottage, quickly enveloping the latter structure.

One of the Alford children, in shoeless and stockingless feet, ran over the ice and snow to the home of John D. Rice, seeking assistance. Arthur Pugh, Charles Pugh and Clyde Stewart, also neighbors, answered the alarm, as did other farmers, but they were powerless to check the flames, as all creeks in the district were frozen, while a pump, from which the family obtained water for domestic needs, was enveloped with flames, as it was located directly between the kitchen and the cottage.

Lost Stock of Provisions.

The family stock of winter provisions, including scores of jars of fruit, etc., stored in the house, was destroyed by the fire.

One bed, two chairs, two pictures and a few drawers from a dresser comprised the only furniture saved.

Dr. C. R. Campbell of Chester was called to attend Mrs. Alford and her son.

Because of the family's plight, steps were taken in Chester shortly before noon by John Rice and Arthur Pugh to raise a relief fund. The Review-Tribune will accept contributions toward this fund which at 1 o'clock this afternoon totalled $55.

The contributions are:

Taylor, Smith & Taylor Pottery Co.	$25.00
John P. Rice	5.00
C. H. Pugh	5.00
Mrs. Belle Pugh	5.00
Arthur Pugh	5.00
Clyde Stewart	5.00
F. W. Werkheiser	5.00
Total	$55.00

Funds collected will be expended in providing clothes for the mother and five children, while an effort will be made to raise enough to meet the expense of a new home for the family.

But $1,000 insurance, which will be collected by the loan company which holds the $2,000 mortgage, was carried on the property.

OPENS REVIVAL IN EAST END

Evangelist Lincicome Conducts Services in Oakland Church.

Evangelist F. Lincicome, of Gary, Ind., opened a three weeks' revival last evening in the Oakland Free Methodist church, East End. He conducted a series of meetings in the same church several years ago.

He spoke last night in part as follows: "The church must either go and grow or stay and starve, it must extend or expire, preach or perish. One reason why you have so many non-church goers in this city is because you have so many non-going churches. Some churches in East Liverpool are mighty fond of singing like a mighty army moves the church of God but are moving like an army. It seems to me they are moving more like a funeral procession or a Memorial Day parade."

The sermon subject tonight will be "Taking an Inventory."

the scene of the Leopold and Loeb crime.

Winn, taken after a battle with detectives at Crown Point, Ind., late yesterday, has so far been defiant, refusing to admit that he struck the actual ax blows that killed Nusbaum.

A diary, written on clean paper, by which Mrs. Nusbaum is said by police to have hoped to have established an alibi, is to be further examined today. In it she told of a fear of her husband.

Loved Ex-Convict.

The love affair of the grandmother and the former convict has been going on for years, Mrs. Nusbaum readily admitted. It went on under the eyes of the ill and broken man who was slain. Winn lived on the woman's money for years. He averaged $250 a month from her, her sons and relatives said.

Others under arrest are:

Delilah Martin, a landlady whose house police say was used for the planning of the murder, and where Mrs. Nusbaum and Winn frequently used as a trysting place.

Edwin Goff and Marion Stringham, lodgers at Mrs. Martin's place.

Twelve hours after Nusbaum's body was found on railroad tracks in South Chicago, near a pile of partially burned clothing, the two women and Goff and Stringham had been arrested. Previously they had taken into custody Lloyd Nusbaum, 19-year-old grandson of the slain man. It was when suspicion was centered on the youth that his father, Roscoe Nusbaum, revealed the affair between his mother and Winn, which brought about the latter's arrest.

Widow Reveals Plot

After sever grilling, Mrs. Nusbaum, according to police, gradually revealed the plot to get her husband out of the way, but strived desperately to cover up Winn, whose arrest followed a few hours later.

There are many points the police have to yet clear up. The actual slayer has not been determined, although Goff at times, police say, has admitted battering Nusbaum's head in with an ax, while Winn stood by, and then again denies his own story.

Woman Faces Court As Aftermath of Elopement Case

AMERICAN DRY CZAR VISITS LIQUOR CENTER

Gen. Andrews Gets View of Situation in Havana.

EYE ON RUNNERS

U. S. Cutter Modoc Drops Anchor in Rum Supply Harbor.

HAVANA, Dec. 31.—For the first time since prohibition in the United States made liquor smuggling and selling the biggest criminal business in the Western Hemisphere, American prohibition officials had an opportunity today to get a close-up view of what is considered the greatest single supply center for international rum runners.

The U. S. cutter Modoc, bearing Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, the American dry czar, and a group of lesser officials, steamed through the narrow entrance to Havana harbor today and dropped anchor within the shadow of historic Moro Castle. Not far from where the Modoc stopped the battle ship Maine was blown up in 1898 and the war with Spain precipitated.

Gen. Andrews came to Havana with the frank purpose of surveying the Havana rum situation. This is the great supply center for Florida, Georgia, Alabama and the entire southeastern part of the United States, and also to some extent the upper Atlantic coast and New Jersey and New York. From this port the liquor-laden caravans go out silently day and night to try conclusions with the American coast guard. Andrews wants to see the procedure and investigate conditions first hand.

An official of the American embassy at Havana joined the Modoc at Key West.

A call was made on Ambassador Crowder, and arrangements made for a call on the president of Cuba tomorrow.

HEALTH BOARD HEARS REPORT

Commissioner Fraser Lists Contagious Disease Cases.

The annual report of Health Commissioner Dr. John A. Fraser, city health commissioner was submitted at the monthly meeting of the board of health, held in the clinic rooms in the Meredith building, last evening.

During the year 130 new cases were admitted to the clinic, which brings the total since the clinic opened up to 860. He said 1,608 male treatments and 513 female treatments were given in the clinic during the year.

The report on contagious and communicable diseases for 1925 showed the following totals: Scarlet fever, 44; tuberculosis, 28; measles, 16; smallpox, 11; diphtheria, 7; chickenpox, 6. Typhoid fever, 1; mumps, 1; tetanus, 1.

The December contagious disease report showed 14 cases of measles; eight cases smallpox; seven of scarlet fever; three of chickenpox and one each of tetanus and diphtheria. Twelve houses were fumigated and at the present time three cases of smallpox and three cases of scarlet fever are under quarantine. Twelve reports of contagious diseases in the schools were investigated. In the clinic 12 new cases were admitted, two old cases returned and 125 treatments given.

Births during the month exceeded deaths by more than two to one, the stork making 62 calls as compared with 27 deaths.

The board also approved the three-year garbage collection contract given Peter Milliron, Second street. Milliron has installed water tight wagons with sectional lids for this work. The board is preparing to publish rates to be charged for the collection.

Fire Damages Home Of Charles Lentz; Loss Placed at $500

Damage estimated at $500 was caused by fire at the home of Charles Lentz, corner Fifth street and Sugar alley at 10:20 o'clock last night.

The blaze was started by sparks from a chimney. Firemen from the Central station extinguished the fire with chemicals, but the contents of the room were rendered a total loss. The house itself was slightly damaged. The loss is covered by insurance.

hell.' Fundamentalists say, 'The hell there ain't.'"

The average man says: "There may or may not be such a super-heated resort. But to avoid running risks I shall behave decently."

You may add that he doesn't amount to much who refrains from sin only because he fears that he may go to hell.

Great Britain with her rubber monopoly takes from this country more than enough to pay her debt to us.

By way of reprisal the Massachusetts legislature is asked to drive out British insurance companies. Such talk is foolish. Uncle Sam, his pockets bulging with gold, and playing the part of a "cry baby," makes himself unnecessarily ridiculous.

Besides, in the California fire English insurance companies paid what they owed in full, which is more than can be said for some American companies.

Goodby to the horse. Los Angeles is the first city to have "no horse" streets. Washington forbids horse-drawn vehicles on four important thoroughfares. That will spread.

The horse is happier in the country, away from hard streets. He is no longer necessary in the city, no excuse for him. Even if he were a little cheaper for some work, which is doubtful, he should vanish. Get a truck.

neighbors, are dependent on friends today, while the mother and her children are worrying about a $2,000 mortgage which hangs over the 35 acre farm which they purchased about two years ago.

The fire followed the use of ground oil by Francis Alford in hastening a fire in an out-kitchen. The oil exploded when flames from the fire in the stove ignited the liquid as it was poured from a can. The blast scattered blazing oil over the boy's clothing and about the interior of the kitchen. The blaze then leaped across the narrow area way between the kitchen and the cottage, quickly enveloping the latter structure.

One of the Alford children, in shoeless and stockingless feet, ran over the ice and snow to the home of John D. Rice, seeking assistance. Arthur Pugh, Charles Pugh and Clyde Stewart, also neighbors, answered the alarm, as did other farmers, but they were powerless to check the flames, as all creeks in the district were frozen, while a pump from which the family obtained water for domestic needs, was enveloped with flames, as it was located directly between the kitchen and the cottage.

Lost Stock of Provisions.

The family stock of winter provisions, including scores of jars of fruit, etc., stored in the house, was destroyed by the fire.

One bed, two chairs, two pictures and a few drawers from a dresser comprised the only furniture saved.

Dr. C. R. Campbell of Chester was called to attend Mrs. Alford and her son.

Because of the family's plight, steps were taken in Chester shortly before noon by John Rice and Arthur Pugh to raise a relief fund. The Review-Tribune will accept contributions toward this fund which at 1 o'clock this afternoon totalled $55.

The contributions are:

Taylor, Smith & Taylor Pottery Co.	$25.00
John P. Rice	5.00
C. H. Pugh	5.00
Mrs. Belle Pugh	5.00
Arthur Pugh	5.00
Clyde Stewart	5.00
F. W. Werkheiser	5.00
Total	$55.00

Funds collected will be expended in providing clothes for the mother and five children, while an effort will be made to raise enough to meet the expense of a new home for the family.

But $1,000 insurance, which will be collected by the loan company which holds the $2,000 mortgage, was carried on the property.

OPENS REVIVAL IN EAST END

Evangelist Lincicome Conducts Services in Oakland Church.

Evangelist F. Lincicome, of Gary, Ind., opened a three weeks' revival last evening in the Oakland Free Methodist church, East End. He conducted a series of meetings in the same church several years ago.

He spoke last night in part as follows: "The church must either go and grow or stay and starve, it must extend or expire, preach or perish. One reason why you have so many non-church goers in this city is because you have so many non-going churches. Some churches in East Liverpool are mighty fond of singing like a mighty army moves the church of God but are moving like an army. It seems to me they are moving more like a funeral procession or a Memorial Day parade."

The sermon subject tonight will be "Taking an Inventory."

the scene of the Leopold and Loeb crime.

Winn, taken after a battle with detectives at Crown Point, Ind., late yesterday, has so far been defiant, refusing to admit that he struck the actual ax blows that killed Nusbaum.

A diary, written on clean paper, by which Mrs. Nusbaum is said by police to have hoped to have established an alibi, is to be further examined today. In it she told of a fear of her husband.

Loved Ex-Convict.

The love affair of the grandmother and the former convict has been going on for years, Mrs. Nusbaum readily admitted. It went on under the eyes of the ill and broken man who was slain. Winn lived on the woman's money for years. He averaged $250 a month from her, her sons and relatives said.

Others under arrest are:

Delilah Martin, a landlady whose house police say was used for the planning of the murder, and where Mrs. Nusbaum and Winn frequently used as a trysting place.

Edwin Goff and Marion Stringham, lodgers at Mrs. Martin's place.

Twelve hours after Nusbaum's body was found on railroad tracks in South Chicago, near a pile of partially burned clothing, the two women and Goff and Stringham had been arrested. Previously they had taken into custody Lloyd Nusbaum, 19-year-old grandson of the slain man. It was when suspicion was centered on the youth that his father, Roscoe Nusbaum, revealed the affair between his mother and Winn, which brought about the latter's arrest.

Widow Reveals Plot

After sever grilling, Mrs. Nusbaum, according to police, gradually revealed the plot to get her husband out of the way, but strived desperately to cover up Winn, whose arrest followed a few hours later.

There are many points the police have to yet clear up. The actual slayer has not been determined, although Goff at times, police say, has admitted battering Nusbaum's head in with an ax, while Winn stood by, and then again denies his own story.

Woman Faces Court As Aftermath of Elopement Case

Mrs. Aclethia Miller, Etna street, Salem, was held for a hearing next Monday afternoon under $500 bond by Judge Lodge Riddle, in juvenile court, Lisbon, yesterday, when she pleaded not guilty to a charge of aiding in the delinquency of Gertrude Lottman, 14-year-old Salem girl, who eloped with Edwin Flavell, Machinist, Christmas eve.

LIKES WAY HIS MEN AIDED HIM

Retiring Mayor Publicly Thanks Police, Firemen.

Mayor Frank C. Blackburn, who tomorrow morning will turn the keys of office over to his successor, W. L. Fogo, appreciates the support and assistance that has been accorded him during his stay in office.

Expressing his appreciation in no uncertain terms, Mr. Blackburn today publicly thanked municipal employes, members of the police and fire departments and asserted that the city should be proud of them.

He said: "I have told the safety department employes that they have my heartfelt gratitude for their co-operation and their willingness while I was mayor. No matter how tough a job they had to face, nor how many hours it took to do it, nor what measures were necessary to accomplish the undertaking, every one of them plunged into it with willingness. I personally feel that the city ought to be proud of the men that are risking their lives to protect citizens and their property.

"Diffcrent rumors have come to me, as mayor, at times, concerning members of the police force, and I have left no stone unturned in my efforts to try to run them down. In no case have I been able to find a solid foundation to any of them."

Music and orchestra accompaniment will be given in connection with the prayer week services.

Preaching in the Longs Run Presbyterian church next Sunday at 2:30 o'clock. Sunday school at 1:30 p. m. In spite of the storm and cold the congregation celebrated Christmas last Sunday afternoon with 50 present. There was an excellent program and an abundance of candy and oranges. LIKES WAY HIS MEN AIDED HIM

Retiring Mayor Publicly Thanks Police, Firemen.

Mayor Frank C. Blackburn, who tomorrow morning will turn the keys of office over to his successor, W. L. Fogo, appreciates the support and assistance that has been accorded him during his stay in office.

Expressing his appreciation in no uncertain terms, Mr. Blackburn today publicly thanked municipal employes, members of the police and fire departments and asserted that the city should be proud of them.

He said: "I have told the safety department employes that they have my heartfelt gratitude for their co-operation and their willingness while I was mayor. No matter how tough a job they had to face, nor how many hours it took to do it, nor what measures were necessary to accomplish the undertaking, every one of them plunged into it with willingness. I personally feel that the city ought to be proud of the men that are risking their lives to protect citizens and their property.

"Different rumors have come to me, as mayor, at times concerning members of the police force, and I have left no stone unturned in my efforts to try to run them down. In no case have I been able to find a solid foundation to any of them."

WILL OBSERVE WEEK OF PRAYER

Beginning on Sunday evening, the congregation of the Yellow Creek Presbyterian church will observe the week of prayer. Rev. Glenroie McQueen, of Newcomerstown, and stated clerk of the presbytery, will preach each evening during the week, with the exception of Saturday. The Sunday evening subject will be "He That Winneth Souls Is Wise."

Rev. K. J. Stewart, pastor, will preach at the morning services on "In the Beginning, God." The offering will be given to the church improvement fund. Sunday school will meet at 10.

Consecration service of the young people's meeting will be held in the evening. The subject will be "How Does God Show His Love and Care?" George W. Shaffer will be leader.

Music and orchestra accompaniment will be given in connection with the prayer week services.

Preaching in the Longs Run Presbyterian church next Sunday at 2:30 o'clock. Sunday school at 1:30 p. m. In spite of the storm and cold the congregation celebrated Christmas last Sunday afternoon with 50 present. There was an excellent program and an abundance of candy and oranges. Nine baskets of Christmas cheer for the sick and needy were delivered to the Salvation Army on Christmas morning.

NEWS FROM TOWNS IN TRI-STATE DISTRICT

LISBON

M. K. Zimerman, West Park Ave. Phone 319-R. Lisbon, O.

ROAD BIDS TO BE ADVERTISED

County Surveyor Kirk Prepares Estimates for Improvements.

Bids for the construction of a section of the East Liverpool-Youngstown road, or I. C. H. No. 502, will likely be advertised by the state highway department for February letting, according to information County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk has received from Columbus.

At the same time bids will be asked for the surfacing of that part of the Wellsville-Salineville road or a section of I. C. H. No. 381 in the village of Salineville.

Estimates for the grading, bridges and surfacing of four miles of the East Liverpool-Youngstown have been prepared by Mr. Kirk, and will be filed with the county commissioners Monday next for approval. For a concrete top the estimate has been placed at $153,380, and for a vitrified paving block top the estimate is set at $206,794.

This four miles of road will extend from Middleton north to the Columbiana-Mahoning county line. With this contract being awarded in February, it is very likely that grading on this section of road will begin early in March.

The southern end of this road, or that just north of the East Liverpool city limits, may take longer to complete than any other section of this intercounty highway.

One-half mile of concrete road is to be built in the village of Salineville as the last part of an improved highway between Wellsville and Salineville. This job has been estimated to cost $17,214.70, and it will be one of the first pieces of surfacing done in this county next spring. Because of the fact that there will be a very short haul of materials, and also because of the fact that the road has been graded, it is likely the job will be completed within a month after the first concrete has been poured. This estimate also will be filed with the commissioners for their approval next Monday, and with this obtained, the estimates will be immediately forwarded to the state highway department.

Surveyor Kirk is working out estimates for several other roads to be built next year, and unless there is something unexpected to change plans these additional estimates will also be laid before the commissioners at their next meeting.

It is the purpose of the commissioners to do as much work on the East Liverpool-Youngstown road next year as possible, although the entire route may not be surfaced, it will be graded its entire length. The four mile section from Middleton north, however, will be graded, bridged and surfaced during 1926.

THREE MARRIAGE LICENSES ISSUED

A marriage license has been issued to Harry L. Allen and Mildred Montgomery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Montgomery of East Liverpool. They will be married by the Rev. John F. Dimit of the Methodist Protestant church at East Liverpool.

Paul Robert Bower of Hanoverton, formerly of Pittsburgh, Pa., and Virginia McCord, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. McCord of Lisbon, have been granted a marriage license. They were married at the parsonage of the Lisbon Presbyterian church by the Rev. P. W. Macauley.

Everett L. Gotthardt, employed as an upholsterer and residing at New Waterford, and Charlotte Marie Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clark of East Palestine, have obtained a marriage license. They were married at the parsonage of the Lisbon Christian church by the Rev. R. J. Bennett.

CENTRE TRUSTEES TO HOLD MEETING

Centre township trustees will hold their last meeting of the old term Thursday night, and at the same time the new trustees will be sworn in. Mrs. Helen O'Brien will be the new township clerk.

The new council of Lisbon will hold its first meeting next Monday night, which will be presided over by Mayor-elect Robert Clark. George Groves, who was elected village marshal at the November election, will be appointed chief of police by Mayor Clark, and this appointment will be confirmed by council.

Former justices of the peace were re-elected at the November election, commissions being delivered Wednesday by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine to Claude Albright and M. K. Zimerman.

FUND TRANSFER SOUGHT IN COURT

Village council of Salineville has filed a petition in common pleas court asking permission of the court to transfer $4,500 from the electric works fund to the water works fund, it being declared in the petition there is no further use for the money in the former fund. The water works fund, the petition says, is in need of the money.

A similar petition has been filed by City Solicitor J. E. Bauknecht of East Palestine, asking for the right to transfer $2,400 from the general fund to the safety fund and also for the transfer of $600 from the general fund to the service fund.

Decree Handed Down.

A decree of foreclosure has been handed down by Judge James G. Moore in the case of the Potters Savings & Loan company of East Liverpool against Orval C. Reynolds and Ida E. Reynolds. The amount found due was placed at $1,539.76. An order of sale has been entered.

A similar entry has been made in the case of the same plaintiff against James W. Metcalf, with the amount found due to be $601.

ROAD BIDS TO BE ADVERTISED

County Surveyor Kirk Prepares Estimates for Improvements.

Bids for the construction of a section of the East Liverpool-Youngstown road, or I. C. H. No. 502, will likely be advertised by the state highway department for February letting, according to information County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk has received from Columbus.

At the same time bids will be asked for the surfacing of that part of the Wellsville-Salineville road or a section of I. C. H. No. 381 in the village of Salineville.

Estimates for the grading, bridges and surfacing of four miles of the East Liverpool-Youngstown have been prepared by Mr. Kirk, and will be filed with the county commissioners Monday next for approval. For a concrete top the estimate has been placed at $153,380, and for a vitrified paving block top the estimate is set at $206,794.

This four miles of road will extend from Middleton north to the Columbiana-Mahoning county line. With this contract being awarded in February, it is very likely that grading on this section of road will begin early in March.

The southern end of this road, or that just north of the East Liverpool city limits, may take longer to complete than any other section of this intercounty highway.

One-half mile of concrete road is to be built in the village of Salineville as the last part of an improved highway between Wellsville and Salineville. This job has been estimated to cost $17,214.70, and it will be one of the first pieces of surfacing done in this county next spring. Because of the fact that there will be a very short haul of materials, and also because of the fact that the road has been graded, it is likely the job will be completed within a month after the first concrete has been poured. This estimate also will be filed with the commissioners for their approval next Monday, and with this obtained, the estimates will be immediately forwarded to the state highway department.

Surveyor Kirk is working out estimates for several other roads to be built next year, and unless there is something unexpected to change plans these additional estimates will also be laid before the commissioners at their next meeting.

It is the purpose of the commissioners to do as much work on the East Liverpool-Youngstown road next year as possible, although the entire route may not be surfaced, it will be graded its entire length. The four mile section from Middleton north, however, will be graded, bridged and surfaced during 1926.

Former justices of the peace were re-elected at the November election, commissions being delivered Wednesday by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine to Claude Albright and M. K. Zimerman.

FUND TRANSFER SOUGHT IN COURT

Village council of Salineville has filed a petition in common pleas court asking permission of the court to transfer $4,500 from the electric works fund to the water works fund, it being declared in the petition there is no further use for the money in the former fund. The water works fund, the petition says, is in need of the money.

Bringing Up Father

How do you feel at 5 o'clock?

"ANOTHER day's work done! Now, for a regular dinner—and a good time with the wife and kiddies! Guess we'll see a movie, go for a walk in the park or take a long ride. Bet my wife has a fine juicy steak and potatoes—good cold buttermilk and hot rolls—and pie. Oh, Boy! makes my mouth water just to think of it."

Is that the way you feel at 5 P. M.? Or, are you just too played out for any good when your day's work is over?

If quitting time isn't really beginning time for you, then it's a sure sign that your entire system is starving for healthy, rich, red blood. And this is just as sure a sign that you need S. S. S. You've simply got to build up your blood.

For 100 years S. S. S. has been proving that a run-down system, rheumatism, loss of weight, loss of appetite, sleeplessness and nervousness, just as skin eruptions—boils, pimples, pale complexion and a lowered vitality, are all the result of blood weak in red cells.

S.S.S.

Once let S. S. S. get to work and the joy of living will come back. 5 P. M. will have a different meaning to you. Get S. S. S. today. All druggists sell it. The larger size is more economical.

NEWS FROM TOWNS IN TRI-STATE DISTRICT

LISBON

M. K. Zimerman, West Park Ave. Phone 319-R. Lisbon, O.

ROAD BIDS TO BE ADVERTISED

County Surveyor Kirk Prepares Estimates for Improvements.

Bids for the construction of a section of the East Liverpool-Youngstown road, or I. C. H. No. 502, will likely be advertised by the state highway department for February letting, according to information County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk has received from Columbus.

At the same time bids will be asked for the surfacing of that part of the Wellsville-Salineville road or a section of I. C. H. No. 381 in the village of Salineville.

Estimates for the grading, bridges and surfacing of four miles of the East Liverpool-Youngstown have been prepared by Mr. Kirk, and will be filed with the county commissioners Monday next for approval. For a concrete top the estimate has been placed at $153,380, and for a vitrified paving block top the estimate is set at $206,794.

This four miles of road will extend from Middleton north to the Columbiana-Mahoning county line. With this contract being awarded in February, it is very likely that grading on this section of road will begin early in March.

The southern end of this road, or that just north of the East Liverpool city limits, may take longer to complete than any other section of this intercounty highway.

One-half mile of concrete road is to be built in the village of Salineville as the last part of an improved highway between Wellsville and Salineville. This job has been estimated to cost $17,214.70, and it will be one of the first pieces of surfacing done in this county next spring. Because of the fact that there will be a very short haul of materials, and also because of the fact that the road has been graded, it is likely the job will be completed within a month after the first concrete has been poured. This estimate also will be filed with the commissioners for their approval next Monday, and with this obtained, the estimates will be immediately forwarded to the state highway department.

Surveyor Kirk is working out estibuilt next year, and unless there is mates for several other roads to be something unexpected to change plans these additional estimates will also be laid before the commissioners at their next meeting.

It is the purpose of the commissioners to do as much work on the East Liverpool-Youngstown road next year as possible, although the entire route may not be surfaced, it will be graded its entire length. The four mile section from Middleton north, however, will be graded, bridged and surfaced during 1926.

Former justices of the peace were re-elected at the November election, commissions being delivered Wednesday by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine to Claude Albright and M. K. Zimerman.

FUND TRANSFER SOUGHT IN COURT

Village council of Salineville has filed a petition in common pleas court asking permission of the court to transfer $4,500 from the electric works fund to the water works fund, it being declared in the petition there is no further use for the money in the former fund. The water works fund, the petition says, is in need of the money.

A similar petition has been filed by City Solicitor J. E. Bauknecht of East Palestine, asking for the right to transfer $2,400 from the general fund to the safety fund and also for the transfer of $600 from the general fund to the service fund.

Decree Handed Down.

ROAD BIDS TO BE ADVERTISED

County Surveyor Kirk Prepares Estimates for Improvements.

Bids for the construction of a section of the East Liverpool-Youngstown road, or I. C. H. No. 502, will likely be advertised by the state highway department for February letting, according to information County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk has received from Columbus.

At the same time bids will be asked for the surfacing of that part of the Wellsville-Salineville road or a section of I. C. H. No. 381 in the village of Salineville.

Estimates for the grading, bridges and surfacing of four miles of the East Liverpool-Youngstown have been prepared by Mr. Kirk, and will be filed with the county commissioners Monday next for approval. For a concrete top the estimate has been placed at $153,380, and for a vitrified paving block top the estimate is set at $206,794.

This four miles of road will extend from Middleton north to the Columbiana-Mahoning county line. With this contract being awarded in February, it is very likely that grading on this section of road will begin early in March.

The southern end of this road, or that just north of the East Liverpool city limits, may take longer to complete than any other section of this intercounty highway.

One-half mile of concrete road is to be built in the village of Salineville as the last part of an improved highway between Wellsville and Salineville. This job has been estimated to cost $17,214.70, and it will be one of the first pieces of surfacing done in this county next spring. Because of the fact that there will be a very short haul of materials, and also because of the fact that the road has been graded, it is likely the job will be completed within a month after the first concrete has been poured. This estimate also will be filed with the commissioners for their approval next Monday, and with this obtained, the estimates will be immediately forwarded to the state highway department.

Surveyor Kirk is working out estimates for several other roads to be built next year, and unless there is something unexpected to change plans these additional estimates will also be laid before the commissioners at their next meeting.

It is the purpose of the commissioners to do as much work on the East Liverpool-Youngstown road next year as possible, although the entire route may not be surfaced, it will be graded its entire length. The four mile section from Middleton north, however, will be graded, bridged and surfaced during 1926.

Former justices of the peace were re-elected at the November election, commissions being delivered Wednesday by Clerk of Courts Frank Ballantine to Claude Albright and M. K. Zimerman.

FUND TRANSFER SOUGHT IN COURT

Village council of Salineville has filed a petition in common pleas court asking permission of the court to transfer $4,500 from the electric works fund to the water works fund, it being declared in the petition there is no further use for the money in the former fund. The water works fund, the petition says, is in need of the money.

A similar petition has been filed by City Solicitor J. E. Bauknecht of East Palestine, asking for the right to transfer $2,400 from the general fund to the safety fund and also for the transfer of $600 from the general fund to the service fund.

Lorah Five Loses to Alumni Quint In Thrilling Cage Clash

Highs Force Graduates to Two Extra Periods to Cop Contest, 46-44

Rivals Deadlocked, 33-33 at End of Regular Playing Time; First Additional Period Sends Score to 41-41; Former School Boys Land Decision After Bitter Scrap in Final Stanza.

ONE of the greatest Alumni teams that has ever flipped the leather on the high school court last night outscored Coach Lorah's scrappy high school quintet, 46 to 44, in two extra periods of play, and made near nervous wrecks out of approximately 275 rabid fans as they did it.

Some crouched in almost breathless attitude, others standing on their toes, many clinging perilously to the top railing of the gym and other people's necks in the jam for vantage points—fans thrilled to the spectacle as the two teams fought it out to a 33-33 deadlock as the regular playing period ended; feeling became more intense in the ensuing five minutes as the score crept slowly ownard—35 to 33 as Firth Smith, Denison star, dropped in a field goal, 37 to 33 as Don DeBolt, W. & J. athlete, slid in another; 37 to 35 as little Tom Pusey swished the net from the center of the floor and then 37-37 as the diminutive school captain sneaked under the basket and made another. And it didn't stop there. DeBolt tossed in one of those one-handed side shots and the Alumni forged to the lead, 39 to 37; Bob Pusey, of F. & M. fame, looped another from mid-floor. Hamilton registered a foul making the count 41 to 38 and then "Jinx" dropped in a two-pointer. P. English was sent to the foul line as the timer's gun barked with the result of the game hanging on his throw. He just tossed the oval and it went through. Bedlam broke loose again, with the score knotted at 41-41.

Pusey and Smith Score.

The second extra five minutes were almost a repetition of the first. Alumni started scoring when Pusey registered on another long shot from mid-floor. A foul and field goal by Firth Smith made the count 46. Hamilton scored and Wilson followed him in. The agony ended at this point.

Lorah's passers acquitted themselves gloriously in face of the brand of opposition. The Blue and White was not pitted against stale Alumni performers of years back. They were matched against smart basketball players in perfect physical trim—Don Debolt, of W. & J., one of the best forwards turned out here in the past decade; Bob Pusey, one of Sam Taylor's best floor men at Franklin and Marshall; Guard McConville, another F. & M. luminary; Firth Smith, Denison college cager, and Dale Liebschner, all-around athlete and captain of grid and court teams at high school last year.

Smith Leads Scorers.

Firth Smith, by the way, was deprived of an opportunity to earn a niche in the Blue and White athletic hall of fame while he was a student here. Almost at the peak of his scholastic days, Smith broke an arm in football, and as a result was kept off the caged court. But he's making good out at Denison and he made good for the graduates last night. Firth, first stationed at center and then at forward led all scorers, with nine field goals and two fouls for a total of 20 points.

But he probably worked no harder for what he made than Forward Wilson, of the High five. Especially in the concluding half, Wilson was all over the court. He played a great floor game and scored 15 points, as well.

And "Jinx" Hamilton was no jinx in any sense of the word. "Jinx" went into the fray in the concluding stages of the engagement when things looked darkest for the Lorah combine, but from the moment he entered high school fortunes appeared to change for the better.

Despite his frailness young Hamilton played a bang-up floor game and during his brief tenure scored four field goals and two fouls—10 points in all.

Outpass School Boys.

At the outset of the contest, the Alumni combine outpassed and generally outplayed the Lorah five which, apparently, could not organize its team play.

DeBolt was getting the ball in the corner and from there it was almost a certain field goal. Field goals by Wilson and T. Pusey gave the Blue and White six points against the Alumni 10 at the end of the quarter.

An almost similar ratio prevailed at the end of the half. E. English dropped in two field goals in the second quarter, with the school passers displaying their first effective team play. Paul English registered a two pointer and Tom Pusey caged the leather from mid-floor for the eight points made by the team. DeBolt and Smith continued to hammer the high school basket and, at the close of the half DeBolt had cornered six field goals and Smith four. The score was 21 to 14.

During the first half of the milling, there were no out of bounds rules in force.

Highs Finish Strong.

These, however, were applied in the second half and play slowed down a trifle, with the Alumni retaining an edge on passing until the close of the period when the school boys started to work. They gradually crept closer until at the end of the period they were in a fair way to catch the leaders.

Hamilton replaced E. English in the final period and dropped in the first filed goal of the quarter after about three minutes of play. Wilson counted another and the score stood 29 to 27. The Blue and White spurted. They began to find the Alumni hoop and with a couple of minutes to go took the lead, 33 to 29.

But Firth Smith and Bob Pusey came through with long shot chances and tied it up as the game ended.

Then the clash went into extra periods with the graduates finishing two points ahead.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

By Norman E. Brown

To revert to football again for a few moments, one feels inclined to present a few figures on the game's stars in answer to the criticism that the custom of selecting All-American players each year works a hardship on these men by lessening their worth the following season.

Do the critics recall that Hare of Pennsylvania was selected for such an honor four different years? That Walter Eckersall of Chicago was so honored three years? That Eddie Mahan of Harvard was "handicapped" three times? That Campbell of Harvard, Gilbert of Pennsylvania, Brown and Pennock of Harvard, Lea of Princeton and Hogan of Yale were so honored three years?

Not much of a handicap in their cases.

And the list of grid notables who won the honor the second year is a much longer one of course.

It is, in a way, a slur on the ordinary intelligence of the various coaches to intimate that for the selection of the game's leading stars on the so-called All-Something or other selections these coaches would be unaware of the strength of these various stars and therefore would not be prepared to check them the following year.

The Big Ten teams were well aware of Grange's greatness before he was honored the first time.

This holds true of all other stars.

It cannot be claimed that the added fame affects the playing of the men involved by giving them a distorted value of themselves. Long before these men are so honored glory enough has been heaped upon them to turn their heads, where the weakness to be blinded by the fame lurks.

Mere piffle, this agitation against such mythical selections.

Bowling has been added to the schedule of games for the 1928 Olympic games. But the joy of the bowlers is dampened shortly after the reading of the announcement by the realization that the alleys in Holland will have gutters.

Harry Greb, world's middleweight champion, may be matched with Jack Delaney in the near future, according to word from New York.

If such a bout does occur it should be an interesting one. First of all it will show again to what depths the fight game has fallen. And secondly it will show once more how gullible the New York fans are.

If the men meet we will have the spectacle of the holder of the world's middleweight title fighting a light heavyweight who has just been coundly licked by the champion in his division. The men will fight at catch weights which will give the bout absolutely no standing in the records. Victory for either one will mean nothing—for the men get paid the same, win or lose.

And those who witness the fight will be trying for a month afterwards to figure out what it was all about.

FLORIDA FIGHT BUSINESS GOOD

Dempsey Offered $15,000 For Six-Round Bout.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—According to Jack Britton, former welterweight champion, the boxing game around Miami, Fla., is in such flourishing condition that Jack Dempsey will be paid a guarantee of $15,000 to indulge in a six-round exhibition there next month.

"Ord'nary shows there average $7,000," he said. "And the bout between Young Stribling and Hugh Walker drew $20,000, the record gate so far. A real good fight there would be a money maker for all concerned."

Britton, here for the holidays, is wintering at the Florida resort and plans to do some fighting there before the end of the season.

W. V. U. Resumes Work Saturday

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 31.—On his return here today from the east Coach Francis H. Stadsvold, head basketball mentor at West Virginia university, announced that he had invited 12 varsity candidates to come back to Morgantown in time to get down to work at the "Ark" court Saturday afternoon. There is a lot of work at the "Ark" court Saturday afternoon. Theer is a lot of work to be done before the opening game with Salem college next week and Coach Stadsvold is anxious to have the Mountaineers in top form for that battle.

Forward candidates asked to return are Emory LePera, of Morgantown; Wease Ashworth, of Buckhannon; Juuian Murrin, of Parkersburg; and Aaron Oliker, of Clarksburg. The two centers urged to report are "Sleepy" Glenn, of Elkins, and Clarence Lewis, of Charleston. The group of guards includes Captain Natus Rohrbaugh, of Buckhannon; Ed. Morrison, of Erie, Pa.; "Casey" Ryan, of Mannington; Jim Black, of Parnassus, Pa.; Herman Johnson, of Elkins; and Ervin Baker, of Clarksburg.

NAVY ELEVEN MAY GET BILL INGRAM

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 31.—"Navy Bill" Ingram, who led the eastern squad here Saturday in the east-west football game, may not return to the University of Indiana as head coach and may instead be coach at Annapolis. Ingram is an Annapolis graduate.

Ingram said that he was not in communication with naval academy officials and could not discuss going there until he had received an offer.

Jonas Ingram, elder brother of Bill, is the new athletic officer at Annapolis, and is rumored active in behalf of his brother. Appointment of a coach, however, rests with the athletic board, composed of naval officers. Ingram has not yet signed a five-year contract offered him by Indiana.

ODD FELLOWS TO PLAY TRIANGLES

In connection with their regular meeting and initiation tomorrow night, local Odd Fellows will stage a basketball game between Lodge No. 374 and the East Liverpool Triangles. The contest will start at 9:30.

The Odd Fellows will probably line-up with W. Watkins and A. Price at forwards; Kidd at center; and Osterhouse and Greenawalt at guards; with Gallimore, Diddle and White in reserve.

The Triangle quint will be Haney, McKeever, forwards; White, center; Nolan and Golden, guards; and G. Nolan, Grimes and Winters reserves.

Firpo Signs for Bout With Spalla on Feb. 15

BUENOS AIRES.—Luis Angel Firpo the Argentine heavyweight, signed articles before the municipal boxing commission yesterday for a match against Erminio Spalla, the Italian pugilist, to be held in Buenos Aires during the first two weeks of March.

The contract provides that Firpo will receive 35 per cent of the gross receipts. Spalla agrees to be in Buenos Aires before Feb. 15.

Marriage Won't Hinder "Strib's" Ring Career

NEW YORK.—With a denial that his recent marriage meant his retirement from the ring, Billy Stribling, Georgia light heavyweight, told Tex Rickard that he would be ready within six weeks to meet Jimmy Slattery, Paul Berlenbach, Tom Gibbons or any other fighter picked and that he wanted to fight Jack Dempsey next summer.

The improved marketing methods adopted by American tanners have resulted in a large increase in the sales of leather in China.

Cornell Trims State

COLUMBUS — Cornell's basketball team defeated the Ohio State University quintet, 23 to 15, here Wednesday night.

Cubs Drop Pittinger

CHICAGO.—Clark Pittenger, Chicago Cubs infielder, has been released to the Louisville American association club as part payment in the deal for Shortstop Maurice Shannon.

Finland Sends Ice King to Test U. S. and Canadian Stars

Clas Thunberg, Finland's "Nurmi of the Ice," has come to the U. S. to meet the leading skating stars of this country and Canada in five championship meets. The first two will be at the new Madison Square Garden, New York City, Jan. 14-16. Joe Moore, international indoor title holder; Charles Jewtraw, winner of the 500-meter event in the 1924 Olympic games, and Charles Gorman, Canadian champion, are among the stars expected to match speed with Thunberg.

STECHER GETS O. K. AS MAT CHAMPION

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—The noble sport of catch-as-can miss, otherwise wrestling, witnessed quite an upheaval during the 1925 season and for a long time the so-called "wrestling trust" knew not what to do about it. Strangler Lewis started the year as the heavyweight champion but hooked up with Wayne "Big" Munn, former University of Nebraska athlete, and the Strangler was tossed about shamefully.

Finally, he was thrown out of the ring, out of the title and into a hospital. Some cynics intimated that the whole thing smacked of the theatrical and saw fit to doubt the legitimacy of Munn's title to the honor.

In any case, he didn't last long. He took on the elderly Zbyszko in Philadelphia and Stanislaus proceeded to polish—or Polish—the young man off in straight falls. Munn also claimed bad faith, or something, but nothing was done about it.

And now the New York commission recognizes Joe Stecher as champion.

All Stars Play San Diego Team

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 31.—The all-star east grid team that went down to a fighting defeat, 6 to 0, before the attack of the western stars here Saturday, will play a navy team in San Diego tomorrow.

"Navy Bill" Ingram, coach of the eastern eleven, announced he would lead his aggregation against the selected navy team under auspices of San Diego naval authorities for benefit of the navy relief board.

Analysis of the game here as a benefit for the Shrine hospital disclosed that the western line is to be credited with the victory. Although western backs made more gains than did the eastern collection of stars, the eastern line did not hold as did that of the west—and that was the story of the game.

As a result of the success of the east-west clash, from point of interest and performance, local football followers announced they will seek to perpetuate such matchers in this city.

COLGATE DENIES PICKING COACH

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—In spite of reports that Colgate's football coach for 1926 would be selected at a meeting here, members of the athletic council have denied that the matter would come up for consideration for some time. The vacancy was created by the resignation of Dick Harlow to accept an offer from Western Maryland.

Tennis Champ Starts European Tirp Today

Evans to Coach Bishop Matmen

DELAWARE, Dec. 31.—Miles Evans, football line coach, has been named to take charge of the varsity wrestling team at Ohio Wesleyan university here where wrestling is being introduced as an intercollegiate sport for the first time this year, athletic officials announced here today.

Ohio Wesleyan is entering the intercollegiate wrestling game in a small way this year its schedule consisting of a dual meet with the University of Cincinnati at Cincinnati February 7, a dual meet with Ohio at Athens February 19 and the first wrestling tournament of the newly formed Buckeye Athletic association which is to be held at Edwards gymnasium under the auspices of Ohio Wesleyan March 2.

Ohio Wesleyan has promising material in all four wrestling classes recognized in the Buckeye association but all the candidates for the teams are inexperienced wrestling having been merely an intramural sport at Ohio Wesleyan until this year.

KANSAS CITY LAD IN SEMI-FINALS

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Still the reigning sensation of the tournament as a result of winning five matches in singles and doubles yesterday, Warren Coen, Jr., fourteen-year-old star from Kansas City, today was in the semi-final round of the National Junior Indoor Tennis championships, one bracket ahead of his field. He will meet the winner of the Eugene McCauliff-Julius Seligson match in the semi final round this afternoon. The finals will be played tomorrow.

HIGH SEXTET DEFEATED, 19-17

Kannall's 7 Field Goals Help Alumni Win.

In a closely fought contest that almost rivalled the main go for action and intensity, Alumni girls defeated high schools' sextet, 19 to 17, in the preliminary to the boys' game last night at the high school gymnasium.

Both teams developed effective passing and clever guarding. The shooting of Forward Kannall, of the Alumni, was the big factor in the defeat of the school girls. Miss Kannall dropped the leather through the hoop seven times for 14 of her team's 19 points.

Misses Imbrie and Gilliland shared honors as leading point makers for the losers. The former registered three field goals and two fouls and the latter made it two double deckers and a brace of fouls.

SHEA-KAPLAN IN BOUT FOR TITLE

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—Championship of the featherweight division will be at stake when Eddie Shea, local leather pusher, and K. O. Kid Kaplan, champion, meet in Cleveland February 26.

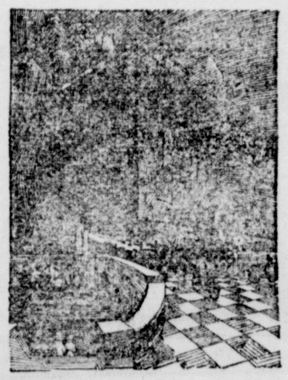

The bout will go 12 rounds to a decision.

Shea turned featherweight four months ago. Since that time he has scored four knockout victories. He was knocked out by Charles ("Phil") Rosenberg, champion of the bantamweight, last September in his last bantamweight battle.

Final arrangements for the go were made by telephone when Alvis, in conversation with Billy Fergus, Cleveland promoter, agreed to accept the terms of Kaplan's manager, Scotty Monteith, for a $25,000 guarantee for the champion.

Rivals Deadlocked, 33-33 at End of Regular Playing Time; First Additional Period Sends Score to 41-41; Former School Boys Land Decision After Bitter Scrap in Final Stanza.

ONE of the greatest Alumni teams that has ever flipped the leather on the high school court last night outscored Coach Lorah's scrappy high school quintet, 46 to 44, in two extra periods of play, and made near nervous wrecks out of approximately 275 rabid fans as they did it.

Some crouched in almost breathless attitude, others standing on their toes, many clinging perilously to the top railing of the gym and other people's necks in the jam for vantage points—fans thrilled to the spectacle as the two teams fought it out to a 33-33 deadlock as the regular playing period ended; feeling became more intense in the ensuing five minutes as the score crept slowly ownard—25 to 33 as Firth Smith, Denison star, dropped in a field goal, 37 to 33 as Don DeBolt, W. & J. athlete, slid in another; 37 to 35 as little Tom Pusey swished the net from the center of the floor and then 37-37 as the diminutive school captain sneaked under the basket and made another. And it didn't stop there. DeBolt tossed in one of those one-handed side shots and the Alumni forged to the lead, 39 to 37; Bob Pusey, of F. & M. fame, looped another from mid-floor. Hamilton registered a foul making the count 41 to 38 and then "Jinx" dropped in a two-pointer. P. English was sent to the foul line as the timer's gun barked with the result of the game hanging on his throw. He just tossed the oval and it went through. Bedlam broke loose again, with the score knotted at 41-41.

Pusey and Smith Score.

The second extra five minutes were almost a repetition of the first. Alumni started scoring when Pusey registered on another long shot from mid-floor. A foul and field goal by Firth Smith made the count 46. Hamilton scored and Wilson followed him in. The agony ended at this point.

Lorah's passers acquitted themselves gloriously in face of the brand of opposition. The Blue and White was not pitted against stale Alumni performers of years back. They were matched against smart basketball players in perfect physical trim—Don Debolt, of W. & J., one of the best forwards turned out here in the past decade; Bob Pusey, one of Sam Taylor's best floor men at Franklin and Marshall; Guard McConville, another F. & M. luminary; Firth Smith, Denison college cager, and Dale Liebschner, all around athlete and captain of grid and court teams at high school last year.

Smith Leads Scorers.

Firth Smith, by the way, was deprived of an opportunity to earn a niche in the Blue and White athletic hall of fame while he was a student here. Almost at the peak of his scholastic days, Smith broke an arm in football, and as a result was kept off the caged court. But he's making good out at Denison and he made good for the graduates last night. Firth, first stationed at center and then at forward, led all scorers, with nine field goals and two fouls for a total of 20 points.

But he probably worked no harder for what he made than Forward Wilson, of the High five. Especially in the concluding half, Wilson was all over the court. He played a great floor game and scored 15 points, as well.

And "Jinx" Hamilton was no jinx in any sense of the word. "Jinx" went into the fray in the concluding stages of the engagement when things looked darkest for the Lorah combine, but from the moment he entered high school fortunes appeared to change for the better.

Despite his frailness young Hamilton played a bang-up floor game and during his brief tenure scored four field goals and two fouls—10 points in all.

Outpass School Boys.

At the outset of the contest, the Alumni combine outpassed and generally outplayed the Lorah five which, apparently, could not organize its team play.

DeBolt was getting the ball in the corner and from there it was almost a certain field goal. Field goals by Wilson and T. Pusey gave the Blue and White six points against the Alumni 10 at the end of the quarter.

An almost similar ratio prevailed at the end of the half. E. English dropped in two field goals in the second quarter, with the school passers displaying their first effective team play. Paul English registered a two pointer and Tom Pusey caged the leather from mid-floor for the eight points made by the team. DeBolt and Smith continued to hammer the high school basket and, at the close of the half DeBolt had cornered six field goals and Smith four. The score was 21 to 14.

During the first half of the milling, there were no out of bounds rules in force.

Highs Finish Strong.

These, however, were applied in the second half and play slowed down a trifle, with the Alumni retaining an edge on passing until the close of the period when the school boys started to work. They gradually crept closer until at the end of the period they were in a fair way to catch the leaders.

Hamilton replaced E. English in the final period and dropped in the first filed goal of the quarter after about three minutes of play. Wilson counted another and the score stood 29 to 27. The Blue and White spurted. They began to find the Alumni hoop and with a couple of minutes to go took the lead, 33 to 29.

But Firth Smith and Bob Pusey came through with long shot chances and tied it up as the game ended.

Then the clash went into extra periods with the graduates finishing two points ahead.

SPORTS DONE BROWN

By Norman B. Brown

To revert to football again for a few moments, one feels inclined to present a few figures on the game's stars in answer to the criticism that the custom of selecting All-American players each year works a hardship on these men by lessening their worth the following season.

Do the critics recall that Hare of Pennsylvania was selected for such an honor four different years? That Walter Eckersall of Chicago was so honored three years? That Eddie Mahan of Harvard was "handicapped" three times? That Campbell of Harvard, Gilbert of Pennsylvania, Brown and Pennock of Harvard, Lea of Princeton and Hogan of Yale were so honored three years?

Not much of a handicap in these cases.

And the list of grid notables who won the honor the second year is a much longer one of course.

It is, in a way, a slur on the ordinary intelligence of the various coaches to intimate that for the selection of the game's leading stars on the so-called All-Something or other selections these coaches would be unaware of the strength of these various stars and therefore would not be prepared to check them the following year.

The Big Ten teams were well aware of Grange's greatness before he was honored the first time.

This holds true of all other stars.

It cannot be claimed that the added fame affects the playing of the men involved by giving them a distorted value of themselves. Long before these men are so honored glory enough has been heaped upon them to turn their heads, where the weakness to be blinded by the fame lurks.

Mere piffle, this agitation against such mythical selections.

Bowling has been added to the schedule of games for the 1928 Olympic games. But the joy of the bowlers is dampened shortly after the reading of the announcement by the realization that the alleys in Holland will have gutters.

Harry Greb, world's middleweight champion, may be matched with Jack Delaney in the near future, according to word from New York.

If such a bout does occur it should be an interesting one. First of all it will show again to what depths the fight game has fallen. And secondly it will show once more how gullible the New York fans are.

If the men meet we will have the spectacle of the holder of the world's middleweight title fighting a light heavyweight who has just been counly licked by the champion in his division. The men will fight at catch weights which will give the bout absolutely no standing in the records. Victory for either one will mean nothing—for the men get paid the same, win or lose.

And those who witness the fight will be trying for a month afterwards to figure out what it was all about.

FLORIDA FIGHT BUSINESS GOOD

Dempsey Offered $15,000 For Six-Round Bout.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—According to Jack Britton, former welterweight champion, the boxing game around Miami, Fla., is in such flourishing condition that Jack Dempsey will be paid a guarantee of $15,000 to indulge in a six-round exhibition there next month.

"Ordinary shows there average $7,000," he said. "And the bout between Young Stribling and Hugh Walker drew $20,000, the record gate so far. A real good fight there would be a money maker for all concerned."

Britton, here for the holidays, is wintering at the Florida resort and plans to do some fighting there before the end of the season.

W. V. U. Resumes Work Saturday

MORGANTOWN, W. Va., Dec. 31.—On his return here today from the east Coach Francis H. Stadsvold, head basketball mentor at West Virginia university, announced that he had invited 12 varsity candidates to come back to Morgantown in time to get down to work at the "Ark" court Saturday afternoon. There is a lot of work at the "Ark" court Saturday afternoon. Theer is a lot of work to be done before the opening game with Salem college next week and Coach Stadsvold is anxious to have the Mounteineers in top form for that battle.

Forward candidates asked to return are Emory LePera, of Morgantown; Wease Ashworth, of Buckhannon; Juuian Murrin, of Parkersburg; and Aaron Oliker, of Clarksburg. The two centers urged to report are "Sleepy" Glenn, of Elkins, and Clarence Lewis, of Charleston. The group of guards includes Captain Natus Rohrbaugh of Buckhannon; Ed. Morrison, of Erie, Pa.; "Casey" Ryan, of Mannington; Jim Black, of Parnassus, Pa.; Herman Johnson, of Elkins; and Ervin Baker, of Clarksburg.

NAVY ELEVEN MAY GET BILL INGRAM

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 31.—"Navy Bill" Ingram, who led the eastern squad here Saturday in the east-west football game, may not return to the University of Indiana as head coach and may instead be coach at Annapolis. Ingram is an Annapolis graduate.

Ingram said that he was not in communication with naval academy officials and could not discuss going there until he had received an offer.

Jonas Ingram, elder brother of Bill, is the new athletic officer at Annapolis, and is rumored active in behalf of his brother. Appointment of a coach, however, rests with the athletic board, composed of naval officers. Ingram has not yet signed a five-year contract offered him by Indiana.

ODD FELLOWS TO PLAY TRIANGLES

The Odd Fellows will probably line-up with W. Watkins and A. Price at forwards; Kidd at center; and Osterhouse and Greenawalt at guards; with Gallimore, Diddle and White in reserve.

The Triangle quint will be Haney, McKeever, forwards; White, center; Nolan and Golden, guards; and G. Nolan, Grimes and Winters reserves.

Firpo Signs for Bout With Spalla on Feb. 15

BUENOS AIRES.—Luis Angel Firpo the Argentine heavyweight, signed articles before the municipal boxing commission yesterday for a match against Erminio Spalla, the Italian pugilist, to be held in Buenos Aires during the first two weeks of March.

The contract provides that Firpo will receive 35 per cent of the gross receipts. Spalla agrees to be in Buenos Aires before Feb. 15.

Marriage Won't Hinder "Strib's" Ring Career

NEW YORK.—With a denial that his recent marriage meant his retirement from the ring, Billy Stribling, Georgia light heavyweight, told Tex Rickard that he would be ready within six weeks to meet Jimmy Slattery. Paul Berlenbach, Tom Gibbons or any other fighter picked and that he wanted to fight Jack Dempsey next summer.

The improved marketing methods adopted by American tanners have resulted in a large increase in the sales of leather in China.

Cornell Trims State

COLUMBUS — Cornell's basketball team defeated the Ohio State University quintet, 23 to 15, here Wednesday night.

Cubs Drop Pittinger

CHICAGO.—Clark Pittenger, Chicago Cubs infielder, has been released to the Louisville American association club as part payment in the deal for Shortston Maurice Shannon.

Finland Sends Ice King to Test U. S. and Canadian Stars

Clas Thunberg, Finland's "Nurmi of the Ice," has come to the U. S. to meet the leading skating stars of this country and Canada in five championship meets. The first two will be at the new Madison Square Garden, New York City, Jan. 14-16. Joe Moore, international indoor title holder; Charles Jewtraw, winner of the 500-meter event in the 1924 Olympic games, and Charles Gorman, Canadian champion, are among the stars expected to match speed with Thunberg.

STECHER GETS O. K. AS MAT CHAMPION

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—The noble sport of catch-as-can-miss, otherwise wrestling, witnessed quite an upheaval during the 1925 season and for a long time the so-called "wrestling trust" knew not what to do about it. Strangler Lewis started the year as the heavyweight champion but hooked up with Wayne "Big" Munn, former University of Nebraska athlete, and the Strangler was tossed about shamefully.

Finally, he was thrown out of the ring, out of the title and into a hospital. Some cynics intimated that the whole thing smacked of the theatrical and saw fit to doubt the legitimacy of Munn's title to the honor.

In any case, he didn't last long. He took on the elderly Zbyszko in Philadelphia and Stanislaus proceeded to polish—or Polish—the young man off in straight falls. Munn also claimed bad faith, or something, but nothing was done about it.

And now the New York commission recognizes Joe Stecher as champion.

All Stars Play San Diego Team

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 31.—The all-star east grid team that went down to a fighting defeat, 6 to 0, before the attack of the western stars here Saturday, will play a navy team in San Diego tomorrow.

"Navy Bill" Ingram, coach of the eastern eleven, announced he would lead his aggregation against the selected navy team under auspices of San Diego naval authorities for benefit of the navy relief board.

Analysis of the game here as a benefit for the Shrine hospital disclosed that the western line is to be credited with the victory. Although western backs made more gains than did the eastern collection of stars, the eastern line did not hold as did that of the west—and that was the story of the game.

As a result of the success of the east-west clash, from point of interest and performance, local football followers announced they will seek to perpetuate such matchers in this city.

COLGATE DENIES PICKING COACH

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—In spite of reports that Colgate's football coach for 1926 would be selected at a meeting here, members of the athletic council have denied that the matter would come up for consideration for some time. The vacancy was created by the resignation of Dick Harlow to accept an offer from Western Maryland.

Tennis Champ Starts European Tirp Today

Evans to Coach Bishop Matmen

DELAWARE, Dec. 31.—Miles Evans, football line coach, has been named to take charge of the varsity wrestling team at Ohio Wesleyan university here where wrestling is being introduced as an intercollegiate sport for the first time this year, athletic officials announced here today.

Ohio Wesleyan is entering the intercollegiate wrestling game in a small way this year its schedule consisting of a dual meet with the University of Cincinnati at Cincinnati February 5, a dual meet with Ohio at Athens February 19 and the first wrestling tournament of the newly formed Buckeye Athletic association which is to be held at Edwards gymnasium under the auspices of Ohio Wesleyan March 2.

Ohio Wesleyan has promising material in all four wrestling classes recognized in the Buckeye association but all the candidates for the teams are inexperienced wrestling having been merely an intramural sport at Ohio Wesleyan until this year.

KANSAS CITY LAD IN SEMI-FINALS

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Still the reigning sensation of the tournament as a result of winning five matches in singles and doubles yesterday, Warren Coen, Jr., fourteen-year-old star from Kansas City, today was in the semi-final round of the National Junior Indoor Tennis championships, one bracket ahead of his field. He will meet the winner of the Eugene McCauliff-Julius Seligson match in the semi final round this afternoon. The finals will be played tomorrow.

HIGH SEXTET DEFEATED, 19-17

Kannall's 7 Field Goals Help Alumni Win.

In a closely fought contest that almost rivalled the main go for action and intensity, Alumni girls defeated high schools' sextet, 19 to 17, in the preliminary to the boys' game last night at the high school gymnasium.

Both teams developed effective passing and clever guarding. The shooting of Forward Kannall, of the Alumni, was the big factor in the defeat of the school girls. Miss Kannall dropped the leather through the hoop seven times for 14 of her team's 19 points.

Misses Imbrie and Gilliland shared honors as leading point makers for the losers. The former registered three field goals and two fouls and the latter made it two double deckers and a brace of fouls.

SHEA-KAPLAN IN BOUT FOR TITLE

CHICAGO, Dec. 31.—Championship of the featherweight division will be at stake when Eddie Shea, local leather pusher, and K. O. Kid Kaplan, champion, meet in Cleveland February 26.

The bout will go 12 rounds to a decision.

Shea turned featherweight four months ago. Since that time he has scored four knockout victories. He was knocked out by Charles ("Phil") Rosenberg, champion of the bantamweight, last September in his last bantamweight battle.

Final arrangements for the go were made by telephone when Alvis, in conversation with Billy Fergus, Cleveland promoter, agreed to accept the terms of Kaplan's manager, Scotty Monteith, for a $25,000 guarantee for the champion.

Auto Speed Kings In Cinema Feature At The American

One of the world's most famous automobile race tracks—the Altoona Speedway—was turned into a motion picture location during the filming of the most stirring scenes in First National's "The Pace That Thrills," in which Ben Lyon and Mary Astor will be co-featured at the American theatre for three days, commencing today.

Not only was the track turned over to the company, but a group of the most noted automobile drivers spent an entire day coaching Ben Lyon in the art of automobile racing and in assisting in making the picture a success.

Peter de Paolo, Earl Cooper, Harry Hartz, Jerry Wonderlich, Leon Duray, Wade Morton, Frank Elliott, Davie Lewis, Dr. Shattuc—these were among the racing drivers who taught Ben some of their tricks. And all of them took part in a special automobile race staged for the picture the day after the recent annual spring races at the speedway.

"The Pace That Thrills" is a picture in which Lyon appears as a movie hero. The biggest thrill is an automobile race in which Ben proves his nerve by driving madly against professional drivers, ending his race when his car crashes through a section of the track that has caved in.

All of the automobile speed kings were anxious to have Ben drive their car, but the honor fell to Harry Hartz, and when "The Pace That Thrills" is thrown on the American screen Ben will be seen riding in Hartz's car.

$100,000 Insurance Given 40,000 A. & P. Tea Store Employes

A combination Christmas and New Year's gift totalling $100,000, was the present given by the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., to its 40,000 employes in the form of $1,000 to $10,000 will become effective January 1.

Supplanting the old self-insuring plan of the A. & P. in which a limited number of employes were insured, the new policies insure every member of the firm from the presidents down to the lowest paid clerks.

There are no conditional clauses in the policy, C. A. Brooks, president of the Pittsburgh district of the A. & P. explained, and the minute a man joins the company he is automatically insured. The insurance will be paid, should a man die, even tho his name has not been reported to the underwriters. A certification of his being employed by the A. & P. is all that is necessary.

When an employee is disabled—what is legally known as being "commercially dead"—the insurance will be paid, usually in monthly installments, until the face value of the policy is gone, Brooks said.

WHEN THE THERMOMETER HITS ZERO

You Want Heat Quick !!

Up on the Yukon, in "the cold that is forty below;" in New England where Whittier's "Snowbound" is re-enacted every year—in these and other cold weather districts, Heatrola has had the best chance to prove its worth.

That it has more than made good is proven by thousands of letters of praise from enthusiastic Heatrola owners in the cold northern states, Canada and Alaska.

Here in our own neighborhood are many other Heatrola owners who tell the same story of comfort, convenience, fuel economy.

Each year sees more home-owners turning to Heatrola. They have discovered that Heatrola heats the whole house to an even temperature; that Heatrola improves the appearance of any room; that it is easy to keep clean; that it uses no more fuel than a stove.

Auto Speed Kings In Cinema Feature At The American

One of the world's most famous automobile race tracks—the Altoona Speedway—was turned into a motion picture location during the filming of the most stirring scenes in First National's "The Pace That Thrills," in which Ben Lyon and Mary Astor will be co-featured at the American theatre for three days, commencing today.

Not only was the track turned over to the company, but a group of the most noted automobile drivers spent an entire day coaching Ben Lyon in the art of automobile racing and in assisting in making the picture a success.

Peter de Paolo, Earl Cooper, Harry Hartz, Jerry Wonderlich, Leon Duray, Wade Morton, Frank Elliott, Davie Lewis, Dr. Shattuc—these were among the racing drivers who taught Ben some of their tricks. And all of them took part in a special automobile race staged for the picture the day after the recent annual spring races at the speedway.

"The Pace That Thrills" is a picture in which Lyon appears as a movie hero. The biggest thrill is an automobile race in which Ben proves his nerve by driving madly against professional drivers, ending his race when his car crashes through a section of the track that has caved in.

All of the automobile speed kings were anxious to have Ben drive their car, but the honor fell to Harry Hartz, and when "The Pace That Thrills" is thrown on the American screen Ben will be seen riding in Hartz's car.

Kearns Brands Scrap As "Publicity Stunt"

$100,000 Insurance Given 40,000 A. & P. Tea Store Employes

A combination Christmas and New Year's gift totalling $100,000, was the present given by the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., to its 40,000 employes in the form of $1,000 to $10,000 will become effective January 1.

Supplanting the old self-insuring plan of the A. & P. in which a limited number of employes were insured, the new policies insure every member of the firm from the presidents down to the lowest paid clerks.

There are no conditional clauses in the policy, C. A. Brooks, president of the Pittsburgh district of the A. & P. explained, and the minute a man joins the company he is automatically insured. The insurance will be paid, should a man die, even tho his name has not been reported to the underwriters. A certification of his being employed by the A. & P. is all that is necessary.

When an employee is disabled—what is legally known as being "commercially dead"—the insurance will be paid, usually in monthly installments, until the face value of the policy is gone, Brooks said.

WHEN THE THERMOMETER HITS ZERO

You Want Heat Quick !!

Up on the Yukon, in "the cold that is forty below;" in New England where Whittier's "Snowbound" is re-enacted every year—in these and other cold weather districts, Heatrola has had the best chance to prove its worth.

That it has more than made good is proven by thousands of letters of praise from enthusiastic Heatrola owners in the cold northern states, Canada and Alaska.

Here in our own neighborhood are many other Heatrola owners who tell the same story of comfort, convenience, fuel economy.

Each year sees more home-owners turning to Heatrola. They have discovered that Heatrola heats the whole house to an even temperature; that Heatrola improves the appearance of any room; that it is easy to keep clean; that it uses no more fuel than a stove.

Give us a chance to be of help in your problems whether they be household, school, or social. We are here to serve you—it is up to you to see that we are kept busy. Q. How does the Belmont race track compare in length with the course on which the English Derby is run? J. C.

A. The length of the main track at Belmont is 1½ miles, 6 feet, 3 inches, which compares with the English Derby—1 mile, 881 yards. The Derby is run, however, on the Derby course which is open country and can not be compared with a race course as laid out in this country.

Q. Does the government accept and experiment with the inventions of private citizens? R. D.

A. Representative Bloom of New York is expected to introduce a bill in Congress providing for a bureau to accept and experiment with inventions offered to the government by private citizens. This bureau would give all such inventions the consideration they deserve. If established, the bureau would probably be made a part of some existing department as there is a growing sentiment against the formation of more independent organizations.

Q. When was the first game of baseball under electric light played? A. B. B.

A. It was played at Ft. Wayne, Ind., June 3, 1883. The game was played by Fort Wayne and Quincy, Ft. Wayne winning by a score of 19 to 11 in seven innings.

Q. What is the extent of the telephone business in the United States as to capital, number of employes, number of phones and miles of wire? W. G.

A. The following data are for January 1, 1925, and are partly estimated: Number of telephones, 16,072,500; miles of telephone wire, 46,500,000; number of employes in telephone service, 350,000; value of investment in telephone plants and equipment, $2,765,000,000.

Q. About how many cars of grapes are shipped out of California during the grape season each day? P. G. N.

A. The peak of this season's shipments of grapes from California occurred on September 24th, when 1,625 cars were billed out. If it had not been for the car shortage which developed two days later, this figure probably would have been exceeded. The heaviest day's shipments last year were 1,246 cars on September 18.

Q. Are there many women pharmacists in this country? E. S.

A. Pharmacy has attracted women in small numbers, but is of increasing interest to them. In many hospitals the pharmicists are women; women trained in pharmacy are working in government and industrial laboratories.

Q. What is the meaning of the name "moire?" A. M.

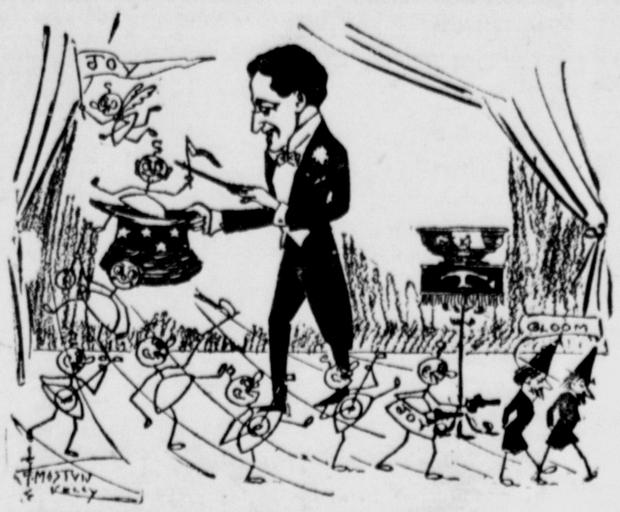

A. The name is applied in the case of silk finished with a watered or clouded effect. It is from the French word meaning wave. The terms "watered" and "moire" both are based upon the characteristic appearance, namely bright and dull in variegated patches like the wandering of spilled water. The fabric itself sometimes is taffeta, but is usually of a ribbed type as poplin.

Q. Which countries furnish the greatest number of aliens admitted into this country? G. E. N.

A. The principal races furnishing immigrant aliens in August, 1925, were German, 3,996; Irish, 3,577; English, 3,424; Mexican, 2,311; Scotch, 2,219; French, 1,698, and Scandinavian, 1,257.

Q. What composer had a piano with black keys instead of white? D. A. R.

A. The instrument in Haydn's home in Vienna has black keys where other pianos have white keys, and white keys for sharps and flats. The piano has no pedals.

Master Magician Will Appear at Ceramic Theatre.

Thurston, the master magician, will appear on his 20th annual tour at the Ceramic theater Monday and Tuesday, January 4 and 5, with Tuesday matinee.

In his particular field he stands without a peer. He surpasses Hermann and Kellar, and all the great magicians of bygone days and continues adding luster to his fame in undiminishing quantities from year to year. Only once in a generation does the artist-magician—of the Thurston type—the magician with the touch of genius, appear and when the public has accorded his recognition, his star remains in the ascendant as long as he cares to hold the boards.

Thurston has improved materially on the methods of the older magician. He is indefatigable in his efforts to give the public "a better show" each year. Nothing short of perfection satisfies him. This is exemplified in the unexampled finish of his performance.

He combines awe-inspiring mysteries, baffling and astounding illusions with deft touches of wit and comedy that add immensely to the satisfying nature of his entertainment.

Thurston has revived a number of mysteries that brought him fame and in addition has worked out many new illusions of the thrilling type, and requires the services of a company of 35, including a number of pretty girls and three 60-foot baggage cars to carry the immense amount of paraphernalia, animals, scenery and effects used in the hundred mysteries on this season's program, including the "Great East Indian Rope Trick," "Broadcasting a Woman's Beauty," the "Vanishing Horse," "Disintegration of a Human Form," "The Mystic Follies," "The Vanishing Donkey," "The Human Pin Cushion," "The Elastic Lady," "The Phantom Princess," who floats out over the stage into the orchestra, then vanishing like a cloud in thin air.

THURSTON HERE JANUARY 4-5

Master Magician Will Appear at Ceramic Theatre.

Thurston, the master magician, will appear on his 20th annual tour at the Ceramic theater Monday and Tuesday, January 4 and 5, with Tuesday matinee.

In his particular field he stands without a peer. He surpasses Hermann and Kellar, and all the great magicians of bygone days and continues adding luster to his fame in undiminishing quantities from year to year. Only once in a generation does the artist-magician—of the Thurston type—the magician with the touch of genius, appear and when the public has accorded his recognition, his star remains in the ascendant as long as he cares to hold the boards.

Thurston has improved materially on the methods of the older magician. He is indefatigable in his efforts to give the public "a better show" each year. Nothing short of perfection satisfies him. This is exemplified in the unexampled finish of his performance.

He combines awe-inspiring mysteries, baffling and astounding illusions with deft touches of wit and comedy that add immensely to the satisfying nature of his entertainment.

Thurston has revived a number of mysteries that brought him fame and in addition has worked out many new illusions of the thrilling type, and requires the services of a company of 35, including a number of pretty girls and three 60-foot baggage cars to carry the immense amount of paraphernalia, animals, scenery and effects used in the hundred mysteries on this season's program, including the "Great East Indian Rope Trick," "Broadcasting a Woman's Beauty," the "Vanishing Horse," "Disintegration of a Human Form," "The Mystic Follies," "The Vanishing Donkey," "The Human Pin Cushion," "The Elastic Lady," "The Phantom Princess," who floats out over the stage into the orchestra, then vanishing like a cloud in thin air.
